HOWE WILLING TO CUT PRICE FURTHER

1954's Unsold Wheat May Set New Record

SEEDING STILL SLOW

OTTAWA (BUP)—Bureau of Statistics crop report indicated today that western Canadian wheat farmers will harvest something less than a bumper crop for the first time in three years.

The crop report, prepared from estimates sent in by selected correspondents, told for the third straight week of cold, wet weather in prairie districts holding up seeding and slowing the growth of crops already in the ground.

Republicans In New Move To End Probe

WASHINGTON (UP)—Republicans launched a new plan today to speed questioning of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy about his fight with the army and to end the marathon hearings.

McCarthy was abruptly sworn as a witness late Wednesday after he unleashed a slashing, drama-packed attack on army counsel Joseph N. Welch in the emotional high point of the 31-day-old hearings. (See story, Page 22.)

Acting chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) called a closed meeting of the Senate investigating subcommittee today to consider ways of ending the hearings.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), who has vainly sought before to find a way to end the dispute which has split the Republican party, planned to make a new try at the meeting.

Court Action Looms Over Douk Children

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP)—Court action will be launched here Friday to take five—or possibly 10—children from Sons of Freedom Doukhobor parents who defied court orders to send the children to school, it was reported today.

The action will be taken by provincial welfare officers under the Protection of Children Act.

School-age children from the nearby Freedom colony of Gilpin are involved.

Yacht Aground

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—An 80-foot Seattle yacht—the Charbus II—is reported to have suffered only slight damage when she went aground near here today.

U.S. Looks Toward Rigid Quotas; British Paper Hails Price Slash

OTTAWA (CP)—Stiffening world competition and declining exports may force Canada to carry over into the next crop year the biggest mountain of unsold wheat in history. The crop year begins Aug. 1.

That development, indicated by the government's latest wheat figures, may mean a long delay in closing the 1953-54 wheat pool and a long wait by western farmers for the collection of profits from the Canadian wheat board.

The government's latest figures, issued today by the bureau of statistics, showed that Canadian wheat exports dropped by

60% Higher Than 1953 Carryover

Exports for May are believed to have been about 20,000,000 bushels and if they remain the same for June and July, Canada may enter the new crop year August 1 with about 577,000,000 bushels of unsold wheat, the highest in history, and about 60 per cent higher than the 369,200,000-bushel carryover August 1, 1953.

(In Washington, a new forecast on the size of this year's United States wheat crop, prepared for issuance by the agriculture department late today, will start wheels turning for growers' referendum on extending wheat production controls for another year.)

Advance signs were that the estimate would indicate that the U.S. wheat crop will be large enough to require Agriculture

Canada Will Fight for Share—Howe

Trade Minister Howe said in the Commons Wednesday that Canada will fight to maintain her current share of world wheat markets even if it means another cut in prices.

He said the government will not make a fetish of holding current prices if that means substantial loss of customers.

But he cautioned members against becoming panicky because of his statement.

"We intend to be competitive," he said. "We think we have some control over the competitive situation."

"The North American supplies are the largest in the world and I do not think we need panic if one country decides to cut its price below ours. It is almost inevitable that we hold some kind of blanket control over the smaller countries."

Mr. Howe said there were certain fallacies he wanted to correct. There were no indica-

FRENCH VOTE ON SATURDAY

PARIS (AP)—The spectre of a prolonged cabinet crisis threatens France and the Geneva conference today. Premier Joseph Laniel, for the third time in five weeks, has demanded a vote of confidence from the angry National Assembly.

The deputies will vote Saturday, and observers generally are pessimistic about Laniel's chances. The premier survived his last confidence vote May 13 by two votes.

Ike Says U.S. Should Not Start a War

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today said the French Union forces in Indo-China are in possibly better defensive shape than before the fall of Dien Bien Phu, but undoubtedly could be much aided by outside military help.

However, the president told his press conference he still does not believe the United States should start a war.

Instead, he declared, the United States should keep its military reserves highly mobile, ready to move to any point of danger, and to continue waging the attack on Communism on a world-wide front with intellectual, economic and spiritual weapons as well as military ones.

MALTESE SNUB PARADE FOR QUEEN ELIZABETH

VALETTA, Malta (Reuters)—The entire Nationalist government of Malta, including Premier George Borg Olivier, today boycotted Queen Elizabeth's birthday parade in Malta.

They were protesting against parade orders which said members of three services attending should not salute during the Maltese anthem, but only during "God Save the Queen."

All members of the cabinet were scheduled to attend the parade, held to commemorate the official birthday of Queen Elizabeth.

Probe Demanded Into Power Policy

'CHANGE-OR WE FAIL' EDEN TELLS MOLOTOV

GENEVA (UP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today told the Communist bloc in the Indo-China peace conference that if their position remains unchanged, it is the duty of the conference to admit to the world that "we have failed."

His sharply-defined, 10-minute speech put the Reds on notice that his determined seven-week pursuit of compromise between East and West is near an end.

The clear implication was that the Communists must offer some form of compromise here and now, or Britain will join the United States in building up a defensive alliance in southeast Asia against Communist aggression.

B.C. Cities to Use New Tax-Levy Formula

Assessments to Follow 1953 Values; Fixed Machines To Be Taxed for Schools

Last year's replacement municipal tax assessments in B.C. next year.

Also revealed today was implementation of an earlier provincial government decision to add commercial and industrial machinery on the municipal tax rolls, also at 1953 values.

In both cases, 60 per cent of assessment will be the maximum on which taxes may be levied.

Effect of the changes should be to broaden the base of municipal taxes, and to make more revenues available to municipalities from residential and commercial properties within their borders.

Municipalities must use the taxes from fixed machinery to finance school costs, unless the councillors specifically include the revenue in the municipality's general funds.

The changes were revealed in a provincial government assessment department announcement today in order to bring about some equalization of assessment next year, all properties in 1955 are to be assessed at 60 per cent of 1953 values.

TO DEVELOP FORMULA

K. E. B. Wildman, B.C. assessment commissioner, said officials of his department were now conducting spot checks of residential properties in every municipality to determine the present level of assessment.

Once that is determined, a formula will be worked out which will be applied to the entire assessment roll in each municipality so as to bring it, theoretically, in line with the desired level of 60 per cent of 1953 values.

ASSESSMENTS TO RISE

In most municipalities this will mean assessed values will go up. Victoria will not be so much affected as others since it has just undergone a reassessment survey when property values were worked out on a 1940-41 basis. Some municipalities, however, have assessment standards dating back to depression years.

Sample appraisals of commercial and industrial buildings will not be made this year due to lack of time, but will be subject to revision by formula.

"If the municipal district has been assessed and maintained equitably in the past," Mr. Wildman said, "the resultant value obtained by the percentage application (formula) will still leave an equitable assessment roll."

"If the assessment has not been maintained in an equitable manner, the inequalities existing will be aggravated." (Continued on Page 13)

Laing, Webster Ask Full Investigation

The resignation of James D. W. Blyth from the B.C. Power Commission today became a major political issue in British Columbia.

Both Liberal Leader Arthur Laing and CCF Leader Arnold Webster have demanded an investigation following Mr. Blyth's statement Wednesday that his resignation "was mainly prompted by concern for the future of public power" in the province.

Premier Bennett has flatly denied that the Social Credit government will "sell out" the power commission to the privately-owned B.C. Electric.

"As long as I am premier," Bennett said, "the power commission will never be sold out entirely, or in part, to any private company."

The premier said he was "amazed" at Blyth's resignation and said plans were being formulated for "rapid expansion" of the power commission.

A. E. Grauer, president of the B.C. Electric, issued a statement denying that his firm "has any designs on the B.C. Power Commission."

Liberal Leader Laing said: "In the light of Blyth's statement, and as the power commission has done an amazingly good job, particularly in rural electrification, we should have a thorough investigation."

Mr. Webster accused the B.C. Electric of "persistent lobbying during the spring session of the Legislature." He said BCE officials were "very prominent" in Victoria at that time, giving rise to CCF suspicions that the Social Credit government is "lukewarm to public power."

"The blank denials of the premier that his government does not intend allowing the BCE to move in on the power commission are not good enough," he said.

"It would appear that he is prepared to weaken the position of the commission in favor of 'public power'."

Commissioners Never Consulted

Meanwhile, a former member of the commission has revealed that commissioners were never officially consulted on three-year-old plans of the BCE to install a $5,000,000 submarine cable to bring mainland power to southern Vancouver Island.

The former commissioner said the cable is "premature" and that if the commission had not been held at a "standstill on Island development plans for the past three or four years" there would be no need for the cable at this time.

He said: "Something very funny is going on. Don't forget the BCE can wreck the power commission by means other than buying it out."

"If we have a dry season this year, and the water storage runs short, they can say we broke our contract with them, and move right in," he added.

William Moore, CCF MLA

Other Island Members Comment

Other Island MLAs, among them Dr. Larry Giovando (PC—Nanaimo-Islands), Robert Strachan (CCF—Cowichan-Newcastle), and George Gregory (Liberal—Victoria), demanded an immediate start on Buttle Lake, and a complete statement in the issue from the premier.

A thinly-defined line, running through Duncan, Cobble Hill and other southern Island centres, is the dividing boundary between BCE and power commission territory on the Island.

In the past, there have not been any border battles. But the BCE's submarine cable, which will carry a powerful flow of power from its vast mainland grid, is seen as the first materialization of the company's plans for Island expansion.

The former B.C. Power Commission member said that if Buttle Lake had been given the construction go-ahead, and completed on schedule, there would be "no necessity for many years for the $5,000,000 cable."

He said BCE, customers in Victoria and Vancouver, the two largest residential consumer areas in the province, are "paying the highest power rates in Canada to the BCE."

"Some people think we were doing too good a job," he said.

UNNECESSARY CONFUSION CREATED

Tyee President Charges Abel With Detrimental Statements

Club president Arthur Cox of the Victoria Tyees today scored league president Robert Abel of the Western International Baseball League for creating unnecessary confusion in league ranks.

The charge arises out of recent persistent reports that WIL faces re-alignment because of insolvency of some clubs, but more particularly concerns accusations made Wednesday against Tyees in a directive issued by Abel in which it was also stated that the league would disband or be re-organized.

In a telegram to all league clubs, Abel charged the Tyees with:

"... Knowingly failing to report to the league any pay percentages collected by them. Victoria admits they withhold over $600 which belongs to the league."

The money concerned is a league assessment on home gates.

In his counter-charge Cox

stated:

"The reason Victoria has withheld paying the league percentages collected by them is that we have taken a road trip to Calgary and Edmonton at an expense of approximately $2,500, and we are given to understand that some other teams in the league have indicated that they are not going to take this trip owing to the expense."

"Unless all teams are willing to adhere to the schedule then our club feels that we are entitled to have a refund of a portion of the cost of the prairie trip."

Regarding the intimation that other teams have indicated they will not make the prairie trip it is common talk that Salem and Lewiston have taken such a stand.

"Regarding Abel's directive that ... 'it (the WIL) cease to operate as of June 14, 1954'

... and later denied by Abel,

Cox said:

"I am at a loss to understand why the statement and decision was made by president Abel at this time when a league meeting of all club delegates is to be held in Spokane on Tuesday, June 12."

Rumors that the four Canadian teams may be dropped are completely unfounded as far as the Tyees are concerned, Cox said.

Cox and general manager Reg Patterson will attend the WIL meeting in Spokane with an "open mind."

And although indications are strong that the league may be re-aligned because of the financial troubles facing some of the clubs, the Victoria club plans to refuse to pay the league dues until the expenses occasioned by the prairie trip are proportionately equalized by clubs which have not yet made the trip to Edmonton and Calgary.

JUST for the RECORD

Prince Domino III, a blue-blooded bull, stands acquitted of charges of wilful misconduct in his affairs with 34 heifers in a neighboring field.

Judge Mervin C. Lernhart decided Wednesday in favor of Prince Domino and his owner in a $6,160 civil suit filed against them by Glen and Carleton Lynch.

The suit charged that Prince Domino had crashed the fence into the Lynch property and did there "wound, worry and impregnate" the heifers over a three-year period.

The suit, characterized the prince as a "bovine Don Juan" and a "wicked Lothario."

But Judge Lernhart ruled there was no evidence to prove just who had done the fence crashing — whether Prince Domino had invaded the heifers' field, or vice versa.

F.U.M.F.F. In Seaside, N.Y., Bruce Lyons took his scolding like the 11-year-old he is, and walked out of the house.

At 4 a.m. on Wednesday, searchers, unable to find him, put bloodhounds on his trail. The hounds sniffed a piece of the boy's clothing, swept through the neighborhood in a wide arc and bounded back through the Lyons door.

Bruce was asleep in his own bed.

TIT-FOR-TAT: In Bologna, Italy, Toschi and his dog, Argo, owe each other quite a bit. A month ago Toschi went to a dog pound and selected Argo to take home with him. Argo had been doomed to death unless he could find a master.

Since then Argo has followed Toschi everywhere. Wednesday they went to a market. There Toschi lost his wallet containing 50,000 lire ($80). He went home crestfallen, while Argo lingered behind.

A few hours later the dog pranced in the house, lost wallet in mouth.

TWO-HEADED: In Bradford, Ont., Eric Tempier, 29, of Vancouver was fined $10 for one arm driving yesterday after Police Cpl. Pat Poland testified his attention was attracted to Tempier's car when he saw "two heads behind the wheel and only one body."

Magistrate Gordon Foster ruled that Tempier was guilty of carelessness for driving with his arm around a girl.

OMNIVOROUS: In Duluth, Minn., thieves who robbed a house under construction here got away with everything — including the kitchen sink.

Police said they took five panel doors, a disposal unit and carpenter's tools as well as the sink.

SUBSTITUTE: In Dickinson, N.D. Gov. Norman Brunsdale has substituted beef for apples to keep the doctor away.

Brunsdale told the North Dakota Stockmen's Association that he feels better and has lost weight since he switched to a diet of a steak a day.

Stiling President Of Canadian Authors

TORONTO (CP)—Election of Frank Stiling of London, Ont., as president of the Canadian Authors' Association, was announced here today.

Dr. Stiling, principal of University College and dean of the faculty of arts and science at the University of Western Ontario, succeeds Paul Kuhring of Montreal. Active in education, he has been chairman of the governor general's literary awards board for the last two years.

John F. Hayes of Montreal, a vice-president and general manager of the Southern Press, was elected national secretary succeeding Hugh McLennan of Montreal.

Brannan Heads B.C. Municipal Officers' Body

Two-Day Conference Ends With Elections

New president of B.C. Municipal Officers' Association is Carl Brannan, assistant comptroller-treasurer of Victoria.

He was elected at the association's two-day conference here which ended Wednesday with a banquet tendered by the department of municipal affairs.

Vancouver city clerk Ron Thompson was elected vice-president for 1954-55, and Bob King, Port Coquitlam clerk, will replace Leslie Brice, who has been secretary-treasurer since 1924.

Retiring president of the organization is Roy C. Palmer, Richmond municipal clerk and treasurer.

ON EXECUTIVE

Elected to the executive were: R. N. Chester, Surrey; Ronald Gibbs, North Vancouver; A. VandeCasteyn, North Cowichan; H. G. Andrew, Penticton; L. W. Wheelton, Kitimat; and A. D. Corker, Campbell River.

Largest attendance at the conference since its inauguration in 1919, was recorded Wednesday. There were 110 registered members present compared with 38 at the first meeting.

Delegates discussed the assessment equalization act, council procedure, and the election act and procedure.

T. R. B. Adams, first full-time executive director of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, dealt in an address Wednesday with functions of a municipality.

Presentations were made at the banquet to the retiring secretary, Mr. Brice and to B.C. Bracewell, who retires as deputy minister of municipal affairs Aug. 31.

Vancouverite Named Grand Master of IOOF

Newton P. Steacy New Chief of Grand Lodge; Former Victorian Elected Grand Patriarch

Newton P. Steacy of Vancouver was elected Grand Master of the IOOF Grand Lodge of B.C. today.

A Trail minister, Rev. John P. Scott, was elected Deputy Grand Master, and Grand Secretary is James Main of Vancouver. E. L. Webber is Secretary Emeritus. Grand Treasurer is R. Brealey, PGM.

In the election of officers for the IOOF Grand Encampment of B.C., a former Victorian, now residing in Vancouver, B.C., Bruce Patterson, was elected Grand Patriarch.

Others elected were: G. H. Summers, Grand High Priest; O. Strong, Grand Senior Warden; J. Main, Grand Scribe; E. L. Webber, Grand Scribe Emeritus; and H. L. Gillard, Grand Treasurer.

Col. F. V. Whitworth of Vancouver heads the Department Council of the Patriarchs Militant and Capt. J. Main is second-in-command.

Installation of the elected officers took place in a private ceremony this afternoon.

U.S. Recession 'About Over', Says Howe

OTTAWA (CP)—The recession in the United States has "about run its course," Trade Minister Howe said today in the Commons.

"If this is to be the full extent of the present decline," he said in initiating a trade debate, "the recession has, by historic standards, been a relatively mild one."

The prevalent view among those following the U.S. economic situation, he added, is that the current recession "has about run its course after a decline of 10 per cent in industrial output and three per cent in gross national product from the peak levels reached in 1953."

GEN. ALFRED GRUENTHER

Gen. Gruenther Reaches Ottawa For Conference

OTTAWA (RUP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme commander of the Allied powers in Europe, arrived here today for two days of meetings with Canadian military leaders.

He was scheduled to meet with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and the cabinet defense committee later in the day.

Gruenther stopped in the Canadian capital en route to the United States from his Paris headquarters.

It is Gruenther's first visit here as chief of the NATO forces.

Eisenhower Predicts Cold War With Russia to Continue 40 Years

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower told a news conference today that the United States faces a truly serious international situation with Communism, a situation which he said might last as much as 40 years.

In a philosophic mood about the world situation, Mr. Eisenhower agreed that the dangers facing the United States today are greater than about any other time in the history of the country.

Under later questioning he said the United States and other free nations might be faced for 40 years with international tension caused by Soviet Russia.

To counter the steady threat to world security, he said the United States must maintain a highly mobile defense force, centrally located and ready to move in event of major conflict.

He said more than anything he feared an inclination on the part of the public to look at international danger on a point-by-point basis rather than looking at the world-wide effort of the Communists to subvert all of the free nations.

The president apologized to the newsmen for talking at such length. But he said he is deeply puzzled about the appeal of Communism to persons outside the Iron Curtain. He said he is puzzled about the fact that some of the best educated men in the United States had fallen victims to Communist doctrines.

He said the antidote to Communism does not lie in military strength alone, but that people of the free nations must remain strong in heart against the appeal of an Oriental doctrine. He added that his international atom-for-peace plan should be pushed regardless of whether Russia goes along with it. He said last week that Russia had closed the door on hope of early agreement on the plan.

Rail Workers Cheer Strike Vote Call

WINNIPEG (CP)—A call for a vote to strike in support of wage demands was greeted by cheers and loud clapping Wednesday night at a railway employees' rally here, attended by 4,000.

Frank H. Hall of Montreal, the chairman of the joint negotiating committee of 14 non-operating railway unions, made the appeal in an address. The committee has been unsuccessfully seeking so-called fringe benefits for the employee. The unions are expected to take a strike ballot this month on the issue.

"Stand shoulder to shoulder today or we'll never stand shoulder to shoulder again," said Mr. Hall.

The meeting coincided with the annual convention here of division four of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, representing 30,000 workers.

"We have not got a chip on our shoulder," Mr. Hall said.

Only Two Playgrounds To Operate Full-Time

Budget, Cut Over Half in Six Years, Leaves Dearth of Instructors, Facilities.

Only two of Victoria's 10 supervised playgrounds will operate full time this summer due to lack of funds, said Gordon Hartley, chief supervisor, this morning.

Reason, said Hartley, is that playgrounds receive less operating money today than they did six years ago when expenses were lower.

In 1948, city council provided $7,000 to keep playgrounds in operation and children off the streets. Today, with 10 grounds in operation and 30,000 children attending each summer, budget allotment has been cut to less than $3,000.

"It is hard to get trained, experienced supervisors for less than a reasonable salary," said Hartley.

"Pressures of expense and the need for economy are realized," he continued, "but for an average sum of $4,000 to $5,000 per year, full-time facilities could be provided."

DANCING HIT

Hartley mentioned the need for 'teen-age recreation, especially in the evenings. "There used to be dancing on the green in Beacon Hill Park from 7 p.m. to dusk nightly, under Miss Dorothy Tubbs, which was especially popular with 'teen-agers," said Hartley. "Now, of course, there isn't enough money to support this activity."

As full a program as possible is being offered children this year, however. Trained supervisors will be present on the two main playgrounds at Beacon Hill and Central Parks, from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Eight others, when operating, will be open from 1:30 to 5 p.m.

Instructors will teach boxing, tumbling, painting, music, clay modelling, dancing, toy making, games and other activities. They will also maintain libraries at each ground.

League games in softball and volleyball will be played on an inter-park basis during the summer.

Swimming instruction is also offered starting July 2 at Crystal Garden. Chief instructor will be Fred Ellison. Boys' day is Tuesday, girls' Friday, starting at 9 a.m.

Tennis instruction will be given every Monday at Stadacona Park and each Wednesday at Central Park, beginning July 7. Boys and girls of any age are welcome, but racquets must be brought. Tennis balls are supplied.

The annual sandbox contest, sponsored by T. Eaton Co., will be held as usual this year, and the fishing derby is scheduled to take place at the breakwater.

Following is the playground schedule:

Central Park and Beacon Hill, open June 30 to Aug. 6.

James Bay Park, Oaklands Park, Banfield Park and Hollywood Park, open June 30 to July 16.

Burnside Park, Stadacona Park, Redfern Street Park and Quadra Heights Park, open July 19 to Aug. 6.

Hartley is now visiting city schools to tell children of the summer program.

A special school for supervisors is held each year prior to opening to fully acquaint them with their duties. All are physical education teachers now, or plan to be when through university.

The earth has experienced at least four Ice Ages.

The Price of Wheat

THE DROP OF ABOUT TEN cents a bushel in the price of wheat is a serious business for Canada. Its direct cost will be large—some forty million dollars on an annual crop of, say, four hundred million bushels—and it will be concentrated mainly on the prairies. But as the prairie farmer buys from all parts of the nation, including British Columbia, the nation's business at large must be affected.

The full results cannot be measured in such immediate terms. The real meaning of this price cut is that the iron law of supply and demand is catching up on all nations, despite every attempt to resist it. Since wheat is in bulging surplus, its price must fall if it is to be sold at all.

The United States, under official disguises, is actually dumping wheat by subsidizing its export at the expense of the American taxpayer, just as the Canadian Government recently dumped pork on the world market. Canada perforce must meet the reduced American wheat price if the present huge surplus is to be unloaded.

Price reduction in such circumstances, however, is not a bad thing. On the contrary, it merely recognizes the facts of the market after governments in Canada and elsewhere long attempted to deny them. Wheat, like every other commodity of world trade, must eventually seek its natural level, where it can be sold. And even with a cut of ten cents we may not have reached that level.

Unfortunately, the United States has sought a price acceptable to the world market by a dangerous method. It has not allowed the price mechanism to touch the American farmer and thus discourage him from producing still more surpluses in the future. Instead, he is guaranteed a fixed price by the Government, the Government accepts a smaller price abroad and the difference is supplied by the taxpayer.

Such policies of dumping—by a Government which is always denouncing them—are certain to damage other trading nations like Canada.

Hence the Canadian Government's vigorous but futile protests against the latest American policy. Probably the Canadian Government knew that wheat prices would fall in any case under the weight of existing surpluses. It is worried mainly by the fear that the use of subsidies in foreign trade—an indirect but drastic form of protectionism—will spread into other commodities.

It is doubtless still more worried by the present drive in Washington for direct protection of the American metal and fish industries, at the expense of Canadian exporters. President Eisenhower is being urged by these industries to place quotas on Canadian lead, zinc and ground fish fillets which currently earn Canada some hundred million dollars a year in the American market. If the President yields to these demands he will deliver a blow at the Canadian economy much more serious than the drop in wheat prices. He may also provoke Canada into some form of retaliation to the damage of both countries.

The issue now before the President is, indeed, of fundamental importance. A cut in wheat prices, a restriction on metals and fish, are no great matter, intrinsically in the huge current of trade now moving across the Canadian-American boundary. Their political effects, however, are incalculable because they are bound to raise doubts, not only in Canada but throughout the world, regarding the United States' future intentions in the whole field of trade.

The United States Government has lately called for "united action" to repel aggression. There can be no such successful co-operation in political and military terms without parallel co-operation in economic terms. The military strength of the United States' allies will be only as great as their economic strength, and their economic strength depends primarily on trade. If the United States undermines that trade it must certainly undermine the Grand Alliance. In playing with tariffs it will be playing with fire.

Survey in Southeast Asia

HOW WELL-FOUNDED ARE beliefs, held in some quarters, that all Southeast Asia is a plum ripe for the Communist plucking?

The opinion of Colin Jackson, British lecturer and writer, who recently visited that part of the world, offers one reply. Writing in the New Republic, he says:

"A five-month tour of Southeast Asia convinced me that the attempted co-ordination of Communist policy from Peking after the Eastern Conference meeting in late 1951 has not succeeded. The change-over from the 1948-1951 policy of terrorism to one of political co-operation for disruption from within has shown signs of success only in Indonesia. It would seem that Communist leadership material in Southeast Asia is markedly inferior... (to) Ho Chi Minh..."

"In the long run the main hope of Communism in Southeast Asia must lie in the appalling low standards of living, and the inefficiency and corruption of the non-Communist governments. To this weapon must be added the Asians' almost pathological fear and dislike of Western imperialism, economic or political, past and present. The Communists will be able to exploit anti-French, anti-Dutch, anti-American and anti-British feelings, and envy of the rich and impatient Westerner for a long time to come."

These are the conclusions of an observer who has covered the field. He sees definite danger in Indonesia. He has found growing strength in opposition to Communism in Malaya, Thailand, and Burma. While he does not rule out the possibility of a coup d'etat in some areas, or the probable impact of the Red China advance into those countries, he makes two points of significance.

If the peoples of these lands can improve their economic status, without dependence on Red China and Russia, their absorption by Communism can be avoided. Moreover, the influence of that form of government is vitiated to a substantial degree in the struggle now being conducted quietly between Moscow and Peking for that part of the globe.

Surmounting a Sea of Troubles

THE CITY OF WINNIPEG HAS suffered another natural calamity, and Canadians from coast to coast feel a measure of deep sympathy for its plight. This great centre of the Canadian grain trade within recent memory has undergone flood, drought and undue cold. Now it is the victim of fire at the height of a gale.

With the sympathy of the rest of Canada, however, goes a firm belief in the resilience of the Manitoba capital. The mettle of the people of that metropolis is well known. Their achievement, with that of their forebears, is a part of Canadian history. And the latest misfortune, like those that have gone before, will be taken in stride. Victorians of today, so many of whom are former residents of Winnipeg, will have a special feeling for those who have suffered loss in the fire and attendant destruction.

Let There Be Darkness

CITIZENS MAY UNDERSTAND, though not justify or condone, the action of the city council's finance committee last Thursday. That day, for the first time, the committee invoked provisions of the mayor's "secrecy" by-law to exclude the press during consideration of a library issue.

After the performance earlier this year, some council members may wish a wall of secrecy and silence around anything they have to do on library matters. In the light of open debate on the subject, they were anything but impressive. And after all, what right has the public to information on the library—a public institution whose affairs are public business? What do Victorians take the finance committee for? An instrument of democratic government?

And later in the week, when the same procedure was adopted by the public works committee and certain private plumbers, what was the committee doing? Putting a lid on something with an offensive odor? Seeking the aid of practical tradesmen in pushing a democratic principle down the drain?

'Humans Will Have Their Use—They'll Be Targets'

A Bear by the Tail

BY WALTER LIPPMANN, From Washington

THE MILITARY position in northern Indo-China is critical and within a week or so decisive battles could begin. The stakes may well be the capital city Hanoi, the port of Haiphong, the Red River delta with its thousands of villages, and even the security of the French Expeditionary Corps. The situation has become critical because on the one hand the Viet Minh have increased their forces; they have brought in large elements of the divisions from Dienbienphu. On the other hand, the French forces have grown weaker and smaller through defection and through the growing unreliability of their native levies.

The determining factor is not guns, tanks, trucks, and airplanes. In these the French have, in large part from the United States, far more than Ho Chi Minh has received from the Chinese. The determining factor is that the French do not have popular support, and a civil war cannot be won without popular support. The Bao Dai government has made two draft calls and only 10 per cent of the men called have joined the army. When they do join, they cannot be relied upon to fight a battle.

The position of the French is a cause for great anxiety. For they are an army fighting a losing war in an unfriendly country. The real military question may well be whether the beset and harried French expeditionary forces can be regrouped and drawn back to a security position from which an orderly evacuation can be arranged.

THEORETICAL ANSWER

The answer to this question ought, at least in theory, to be found at Geneva. It may not be easy to find it there. The answer could be found if a cease fire could be arranged now—that is to say before the military position, which is deteriorating, becomes still worse.

But that, of course, is precisely the reason why we must expect the Communists to be very stiff to ask in a negotiation for some considerable part, perhaps not all, of what they have a good prospect of winning by force of arms.

There are reasons for thinking that the crucial point in a negotiation is the capital city of Hanoi—the administrative, cultural, and commercial centre of Northern Indo-China, and an important commercial outlet of Southern China.

The French still hold Hanoi. But the Viet Minh are deployed where it looks possible that they may be able to cut the connections of Hanoi with the port of Haiphong, and then to surround it as they did Dienbienphu. Will Ho Chi Minh be prepared to negotiate an armistice which leaves Hanoi in the hands of the French? And can the French agree to an armistice which surrenders Hanoi to Ho Chi Minh?

CRUEL ISSUE

This is a cruel issue. The French in a position where they cannot hold Hanoi without massive intervention by the United States and yet cannot give it up unless it is taken from them in battle?

In Northern Indo-China the French have a bear by the tail. Their problem, which is our problem and a world problem, is how to let go in the north without letting go of Cochinchina, Cambodia and Laos.

On the strategic map, which does not include the political attitude of the peoples, there is no reason why a partition—say at the 16th Parallel—should mean the fall of Southern Indo-China. The connections between Northern and Southern Indo-China can be invaded by Chinese armies marching on foot. But the Chinese armies cannot invade Southern Indo-China, much less Malaya, except—as the Japanese did—by sea.

The weakness of Southern Indo-China is that the Bao Dai government has no genuine popular support and, therefore, once Ho Chi Minh is seated in the capital city of Hanoi, he will probably be generally regarded as the national leader of the whole of Viet Nam. The French in Indo-China are trying, as the saying goes in the East, to carve wood that is rotten.

There is no use pretending that the prospect is good. The best that can be made of this very bad job is almost certainly to partition the country with a chance, not a good chance but not a hopeless one, of keeping Southern Indo-China more or less neutralized and outside the military orbit of revolutionary China.

Even at this late date and after all the mistakes that have been made by everybody, this ought still to be an attainable objective. If it is attainable, it will be because there is a united front of the powers to back it up. But that, as Mr. Dulles has found, is easier said than done, and the situation is now so critical that it is time to stop pulling the wool over our own eyes. It is time to realize that a principal, almost certainly the principal, obstacle to the united front is right here in Washington.

UNLIMITED OBJECTIVE

The obstacle is in the fact that the interventionists, led by Admiral Radford, have an unlimited objective—namely the overthrow of the Red Chinese regime. For this objective Secretary Dulles can never hope to organize a united front in Europe and in Asia, and there is not even a united front among the Chiefs of Staff, and with Congress and with American public opinion.

It is because of Admiral Radford's well-known views on the necessity of a general war with China that every military proposal he sponsors disunites the front that Secretary Dulles has been trying to organize.

The whole Western position is undermined because Admiral Radford's objectives go so far beyond the mobilization and guaranteeing of some kind of armistice in Southeast Asia. The West is divided by his objective and is unable to agree on any practical and effective measures in the emergency because the West cannot be united behind Admiral Radford. There is no use talking about a united front if he is to be the military leader of it. He cannot lead a coalition because he wants to go places where nobody in Europe, no great power in Asia, and mighty few Americans are willing to go along with him.

What we need is to clarify and limit our objectives. They are now in the utmost confusion and inflation because there are a dozen semi-official versions of them. Because of these confusing statements we are giving the world the impression that we do not want to negotiate at all in the Far East; that our people do not want to fight, but that there is a faction within the Administration and in Congress which is trying to entangle us in a general war. That is a disastrous impression for the prestige of a great power, and the prestige of the United States is to put it mildly—not what it ought to be.

As Our Readers See It

VATICAN AMBASSADOR

Just recently Finland sent a new ambassador to the Holy See. Nobody in Finland protested against that; there was no danger for this country's unity as one considered this event as completely normal. Finland is an entirely Protestant country, but it recognizes the Vatican as a state, which, though it is very small as a territory, exercises a tremendous influence in the entire world and where one can get information about world politics better than anywhere else.

In Canada a Protestant minority is persisting to oppose the nomination of an ambassador to the Vatican and the government in Ottawa consents to bend to the demands of those fanatics. How can one explain that Canada, with such a tremendous Catholic population, should be one of the few countries not willing to recognize the Holy See? A large part of the Canadian press continually comes back to that question, not stopping to express their astonishment about that attitude. One can not get accustomed to an injustice and anomaly big as that.

'DELIVER US FROM EVIL'

There are thousands of disillusioned men who came back from the last world war persuaded that they had suffered in the cause of achieving peace on earth. Many did not come back. And we still perpetuate the monstrous folly of believing that peace can be attained on this earth by mortal endeavor and sacrifice.

Let us face the issue and be finished forever with that damnably false and merciless fallacy.

For our conscience sake, to lessen the terrible travail incident upon any international clash of arms, let us acknowledge our little power to deliver ourselves from evil. We live in a world where evil despoils every mortal effort to live in peace, and we cannot deliver ourselves from evil.

That is a divine prerogative. And since the Prince of Peace came 1954 years ago for that express purpose of redeeming mankind from evil, and since we are merciful and have no other recourse for being delivered from evil, surely "the press" has brains enough and guts enough to clarify the issue, rather than be engulfed in the wanton slaughter of humanity that is being rehearsed on a small scale in Indo-China and elsewhere.

HOMES FOR STUDENTS

The need for satisfactory living conditions for thousands of university students is not a new problem in any of the larger centres of learning in Canada. This is particularly true of those who find it necessary to travel far to study in other than their own home cities. I refer here to those other than the already provided for "exchange students."

The High Cost of Leisure

From The Montreal Gazette

WALTER P. REUTHER has made a striking statement. Some CIO affiliates have been urging him to advocate a 30-hour week. They say this would reduce unemployment. But Mr. Reuther, as president of the CIO, is firmly opposed to the suggestion. He says the basic 40-hour week should not be cut. It would only mean "sharing the scarcity."

What the country needs is more purchasing power, not more leisure. This is not the first time that Mr. Reuther has spoken out in support of work as being the basis of living standards. Such statements have much importance. For there has long been an impression that the reduction of work, even below the reasonable 40-hour week, is not only a personal gain in leisure; it may be a sort of economic contribution.

But leisure, however desirable in itself, has to be paid for. The person who works less has to be supported for the time he is idle. And the increase of idleness can become a huge national burden.

Mr. Reuther's opposition to the 30-hour week is all the more interesting because of his position as the CIO's president. But a warning against the high cost of leisure has come from another high authority—Lord Beveridge.

AT THE CROSSROADS

In a series of articles in The Sunday Times, Lord Beveridge has been writing of "social security at the crossroads." As the author of the celebrated Beveridge Report for cradle-to-the-grave security, he is deeply disturbed at the threat of economic failure that hangs over his plan.

In particular Lord Beveridge is concerned with the system of old age pensions. The British old age pension fund is now in the red (as is Canada's). And he is unhappily convinced that this is

Last year I began work on what I believe to be an excellent plan. I am hopeful that it will, before too long, be adopted and become a nationally organized practice.

I can see no reason why students going from, say Vancouver to Toronto and Toronto to Vancouver, should not simply exchange homes. This would not only assure these young people a congenial "home away from home" but, in many cases, would provide the necessary financial help.

I have contacted service clubs, university groups, etc., all across Canada but have met with the same response in most cases—"an excellent plan and if it gets under way, we'll stand behind it." Consequently, I am hereby making the following request.

Would any student, of family of such, in any of the leading university centres in Canada, interested in the above-mentioned project, write to me? I would be very happy to do what I can to get the scheme under way by forwarding enquiries and offers to those whom they might concern. No fee nor obligation whatsoever attached.

FLUORIDES FROM ALUMINUM

The statement of nutritionist Martin Pretorius that sodium fluoride (the substance added to water supplies to produce fluoridation) is a by-product of aluminum refining is amplified by Dr. John A. Lovell, Editor The Kingdom Digest, Fort Worth, Texas.

"It is a fact that companies selling fluoride for city water fluoridation are subsidiaries of The Aluminum Company of America, and the federal official pushing fluoridation is Security Administrator Oscar Ewing, a former high-salaried attorney of the same aluminum interests. Fluorides are a practically worthless by-product of poisonous aluminum."

THANKS

We would like to thank you for all the wonderful publicity your paper gave to our S.P.C.A. sale. Without your help we could never have put it over.

We took in approximately $854 and our expenses were exactly $10—the cost of mailing 500 post cards.

We would particularly like to take this opportunity to thank all who helped us. We hope we haven't failed to collect from anyone who asked us to call. If so, please forgive us.

Last, but not least, we thank all the people who worked for us. They worked hard and cheerfully and we think we have made many new friends.

Through our sale the S.P.C.A. has gained more than mere money.

MARKED for READING

WOMAN'S WILES

She must realize that most men marry, first and foremost, for a home of their own, children, the passing-off of their heritage and their lifeblood, and the perpetuation of their mother's cooking. She must realize, too, that a young man puts the same price on a girl as she puts herself, and respects her accordingly; and that all through history the women who have made the most successful alliances have been those who have been able to flatter their other half into believing himself, to be twice the man he really is.

—Godfrey Winn, well-known author.

'Seduction of the Innocent'

Dr. Fredric Wertham's violent blast against the comics—"Seduction of the Innocent"—is not a book I want to discuss, but as part of my job is to write about children and matters affecting them, I can hardly ignore it. This, then, is written from a stern sense of duty. (Dr. Wertham would understand that. He's full of it.)

"Seduction of the Innocent" is bound to have a considerable effect upon parental thinking in North America. Already it has been widely reviewed, and the best review I've read to date is by Robertson Davies in the June 5 issue of Saturday Night. During the balance of 1954, we're likely to find a rash of articles on comic books in most of the popular magazines. (See the Reader's Digest for May and for June.)

Ruth

And that's precisely what Dr. Wertham wanted as he's out to rouse public opinion. But his book worries me. I'm afraid, for instance, that the parents who should read it won't because they don't read anything, don't care what their children read and don't care what their children do so long as they're quiet and keep out from underfoot. Radio is the only means of reaching parents like those.

I'm afraid, too, that lots of normal, conscientious parents bringing up normal, conscientious children with lots of love, laughter and firm but kindly discipline, may read "Seduction of the Innocent" and worry themselves sick because their offspring are harmlessly going through the comic books phase.

Without a doubt, Dr. Wertham is passionately sincere, but I've enough British blood in me to wish that he had cut down on the passion. It wouldn't have harmed the sincerity a bit. Because much of what he says is true. The comics (even in Canada where the worst are forbidden) are pretty rotten stuff, quite unlike the comic strips in the newspapers and a far cry from the funny papers of our youth.

I doubt whether any European nation allows its young to be exposed to such disgusting nonsense in such vast quantities. No wonder many of our better-educated New Canadians are horrified and astonished to find this state of affairs on a continent where the Cult of the Child has reached almost lunatic proportions.

In the article he wrote for the Ladies'

Home Journal (November, 1953), Dr. Wertham states: "It (crime comics) certainly is not the only factor (contributing to juvenile delinquency), or nor in many cases is it even the most important one; but there can be no doubt that it is the most unnecessary and least excusable one."

The book is much more vehement and single-tracked than that. It makes little or no mention of other contributing factors such as emotional maladjustment, economic insecurity, broken homes, working mothers, breakdown of parental discipline and family life, or the increasing speed and violence of our times.

I suppose that to see this book in perspective one should remember the pattern of social history where periods of declining morals, public and private, are sometimes followed by an era of strait-laced virtue. (The reaction to the scarlet licentiousness of the early Stuarts was the grey and white austerity of Puritanism, and the ponderous Hanoverian excesses were followed by the prunes and prisms of Mrs. Grundy.) Perhaps we are headed for a highly moral age with Dr. Wertham one of the many pushing us along the way.

I dislike "Seduction of the Innocent" for its emotionalism, messianic fervor, its haloed righteousness, its unhealthy Puritanism and the hint of martyr-complex that creeps into the later chapters of the book. But it's all quite natural if one remembers that Dr. Wertham has for years been head of a psychiatric clinic in the heart of Harlem's slum district, and for almost a decade has waged an unsuccessful crusade against the comics.

It will be interesting to see how Canadians react to this book. On one level, there will probably be cries for greater control, rigidly enforced. On a higher level, there will be protests from intellectuals quoting Milton's famous sentence: "I cannot praise a fugitive and cloistered virtue."

But a good fierce fight over the comics is constructive if it makes people think about a type of reading that at its best does no good, and at its worst is harmful.

We're fools to spend millions on public education and then let children read stuff that largely contradicts everything we're trying to teach them in our homes and schools. Let's keep our heads, though. There is no room for neutrals in the comic book fight, rants Dr. Wertham.

But there is ALWAYS room for moderation and plain common-sense!

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Marilyn Monroe Writes

(Dorothy Kilgallen is on vacation. Pinch-hitting for her today is a girl who knows all about hitters, Marilyn Monroe.)

NEW YORK—OF THE MANY PERQUISITES of what Hollywood calls "stardom," one of the pleasantest is the fan mail which pours in from members of the movie audience who feel free to ask for advice.

Before my marriage I noted that many of the letters from women asked the simple question, "How do you catch a man?"

Now that I'm married, the questions are, "How do you hold him?" and "Should a married woman be sexy?"

Many of the questions imply that there is something tricky or mysterious about being attractive either before or after marriage, and that a woman must be devious and practice secret wiles in order to capture and hold the interest of the man she loves.

I think that physical attractiveness is important, since it is the basis of the man-woman relationship but equally important, if something more than a flirtation is desired, is naturalness and honesty. A man may be intrigued by a pretty face or figure, but he falls in love with the real person behind the facade. If he marries one person and discovers he's tied to another, he is bound to become disillusioned and perhaps regret his bargain.

MY OWN EXPERIENCE WAS PERHAPS different from the normal because before I met Joe DiMaggio I already knew about him as a public figure and had certain preconceived notions as to what he would be like.

I rather expected to meet a flashy type, sharply dressed and given to loud conversation. Instead I met a man who was dressed conservatively (I subsequently learned that he had been named as one of the nation's ten best-dressed men), who was almost shy in his conversation and who preferred quiet talk in out-of-the-way places to the spotlight of night clubs and public gatherings.

I'm sure Joe, in turn, had a mental picture of a theatrical type given to excesses in dress and manner. He was to learn, I think, that actresses have two sides to their make-up—the glamor they strive for in public, and the normalcy they enjoy when out of public view.

In our courtship, then, it became a matter of getting to know each other as we really are. In this we were completely honest and free of artificiality. I know that I fell in love with the real Joe, not the Joe of the headlines.

and I think he fell in love with the real Marilyn Monroe and not the girl of the calendar.

I AM CERTAINLY NO AUTHORITY ON the subject, but when someone asks me how to hold a husband, I tell them this: Be yourself, but don't let down. If a man marries a happy girl and one who keeps herself well groomed and desirable, he's entitled to live with that same person and not a frowsy grouch.

The big test of marriage is the "breakfast table" test. Any girl can be attractive in the evening, when she's had time to apply her best cosmetics and wear her best gown and is in a carefree mood.

It's how she looks in the morning that really counts—and this isn't a matter of make-up at all. She shouldn't dress for breakfast as she would for a night club, because now she's a housewife rather than a companion on a date. She can even have her hair up in curls.

But she should remember that a sunny disposition is the best cosmetic of all and she should strive to greet her husband, and the new day, with a happy smile rather than a before-coffee expression of grumpiness.

SHOULD A MARRIED WOMAN BE sexy? I think this is a silly question. Sexiness in recent years has taken on a peculiar connotation of physical flamboyance, and what husband wants his wife acting around the house like a temptress in a B-movie?

Above all, I think, it is important for a woman to remain feminine. I thoroughly approve of slacks, pedal-pushers and other similar garments, but not as a symbol of who wears the pants in the family.

The husband should be the head man and the wife should always remember that she's a woman. The girl who gets her man by virtue of her femininity, and then suddenly turns into a domineering female in the home, is due for trouble.

The "clinging vine" type of wife went out of style years ago and I'm not advocating any such approach. But I do think there should be a clear understanding on the woman's part that she is still a woman.

I approached marriage thoughtfully as well as happily. I intend to make mine work by being honest, by being as attractive as I can at all times, and by making a real home when I'm not in front of the cameras.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

CITY'S WEATHER RECORD
Sunshine, 1954 ..... 863.2 hrs.
Last Year ..... 730.8 hrs.
Precip. to Date ..... 14.28 ins.
Last Year ..... 15.86 ins.

SYNOPSIS—There was a lot of cloud in the skies over B.C. today as the weather trends back once more toward an unsettled state. A slowly moving disturbance in the interior will cause some showers through the day while another system off the coast will move inland tomorrow causing precipitation overnight and Friday. Because of the slow moving nature of these systems some sunshine can be expected in most areas both days. Temperatures will be a little cooler today and again Friday.

DYKES FINED, SUSPENDED
BOSTON (AP) — Jimmy Dykes, Baltimore manager, Tuesday was suspended for three days and fined $50 by American League president Will Harridge.

Dykes was informed of the action by a telegram from Harridge. The action resulted from a run-in Dykes had with umpire Ed Hurley in New York Sunday.

Around-the-Clock Care For Polio Sufferers

EDMONTON, Alta. (BUP)—The Alberta government and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the University of Alberta will provide continuous medical care for acute polio cases under a new agreement signed June 1, it was announced today.

An order-in-council ratifying the agreement was passed this week. It calls for the grouping of respirator (iron lung) polio cases in units of 20 to 30 patients.

When a unit has been established the college will provide round-the-clock teams of doctors. The government, in turn, will pay the college $140 per day while the unit is in operation.

A team will consist of three doctors, each of whom will work an eight-hour shift.

It was expected that the unit system would be used in three hospitals—the Calgary General.

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Phil Hergesheimer, who coached Kelowna Packers last year, will guide the Kamloops Elks during the 1954-55 Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League season, the club executive has announced.

Prancing Horses, 6-Foot Soldiers Carry Battle Colors Before Queen

LONDON (UP)—Prancing horses and six-foot-tall soldiers carried battle banners before Queen Elizabeth today in a formal birthday tribute that is one of Britain's most brilliant pageants.

The Queen, dressed in the scarlet tunic and jaunty cockade hat of colonel-in-chief of the Coldstream Guards, rode side-saddle on her chestnut horse Winston for the famed trooping of the color. Millions of persons watched on television and tens of thousands jammed into The Mall and around the Horseguards' Palace.

EGGS CREOLE with RICE

- 1 package Minute Rice
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 2 cups (20-oz. can) tomatoes
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 8 drops pepper sauce (about)
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 4 eggs

Prepare Minute Rice according to package directions. Meanwhile, sauté onion and green pepper in butter until tender. Drain and reserve 1/2 cup juice from the can of tomatoes. Add remaining tomatoes and juice, brown sugar, salt and pepper sauce to onion mixture. Cook over medium heat 5 to 7 minutes; stir occasionally. Mix reserved tomato juice with cornstarch; add to tomato mixture; stir and cook until thickened. Cook 3 to 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Scramble 6 eggs. Add 1 tablespoon butter to rice, if desired; arrange with eggs on platter; top with the Creole Sauce. A feast for 4.

Ottawa Expert Tours Nanaimo Pre-School Dental Clinic

NANAIMO—Dr. H. K. Brown, director, dental health division, department of national health and welfare, Ottawa, observed the results of work done on the teeth of pre-school children at the preventive dental clinic, Princess Royal School, in Nanaimo.

Dr. Brown, who is on a cross-country tour observing public health dental programs, was accompanied by Dr. F. McCombie, director, division of preventive dentistry, health branch, Victoria.

Seven local youngsters—Billy Woodson, Doris Armstrong, Susan Robinson, Glenda Zral, Sharon Thin and James and Arthur Bryce—took turns in the chair to display the work which had been performed previously by Dr. P. W. Arkle, dental officer, Central-V.I. Health Unit.

Dr. Brown and Dr. McCombie also met school officials and representatives of the city council, school board, Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, PTA council and women's auxiliary to the health unit.

In a little over nine months the preventive dental clinic has examined 597 preschool children. As far as is known, this is the only dental clinic in Canada which works primarily on pre-school children.

Voters Flock Early To Nanaimo Polls

Fate of Controversial Cemetery Plan Known Tonight; $315,000 Fire Hall Also

NANAIMO—Ratepayers started to flock to polling station at Plaza Hotel ballroom at opening time this morning. The $55,000 cemetery by-law which for months has caught the attention of public and city council is at stake, along with the $315,000 fire hall-police station by-law.

Mayor George Muir told ratepayers Monday that passage of the cemetery by-law would not raise the taxes because the cemetery would pay for itself in five years' time. He said the reserves built up over the first five years of operation would amount to $27,450, more than sufficient to provide for additions required at end of 12 years.

Said Mayor Muir: "Of the 21 sites examined the one city council proposes to buy is the only one which is entirely suitable for cemetery purposes. The Nanaimo cemetery will be filled by the end of June. There are only 12 plots left and space for single burials if we use first five years of operation walks and paths. No matter what happens to this by-law we are going to have a cemetery."

Suggested Site of Diamond Opposed By Duncan Group

DUNCAN—A suggested lay-out for use of the grounds of a board fence around the Cowichan District Community Centre Association caused animated discussion Wednesday.

A proposal to include softball and Little League baseball diamonds inside a quarter-mile track brought quick objection from softball-delegates.

It was decided to circulate copies of the plan to all member organizations with a request that they prepare comments for a future meeting. The association has 14 1/2 acres of grounds on Trans-Canada Highway and James Street, and is planning for year-round athletics.

First work parties to erect a board fence around the grounds were to be held this afternoon and evening.

Conservation Club Aids In Fish Experiment

QUALICUM BEACH—Members of the high school Wild Life and Conservation Club had an outing with game-commission workers from Pultegge hatchery, watching and assisting in the placement of young trout in Hamilton swamp near here.

The project is an experiment to see if the young fish will survive under conditions there. The area has been made available to the club for wild-life study purposes.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Names in the news:

And if there's a dissenter in the house who doesn't believe that Ed Dorohoy deserves the chance to get another whirl in the National Hockey League, we haven't heard of him.

And even if there are a few detractors, they're outnumbered 100-1.

It may be, and possibly is, a fact that the Cougar pepper pot centre was always open for draft by NHL clubs. And it certainly is true that nobody has given him a tumble since Frank Selke of the Canadiens took one look a few years ago, liked a little of what he saw, but not what he heard from what he said, and Ed was told to get more seasoning.

Never one to guard a grudge with silence, Dorohoy politely informed Selke and coach Dick Irvin at that time, in effect, that how in hell can a guy shine on the ice when all the shine is on his trousers.

With that impression behind him and the Montreal brass not prone to listening to such eulogies, Ed started the long trail back. Dallas and Cincinnati were whistle stops along the route west that saw Eddie land in Victoria during the 1949-50 campaign.

Out part of that season with injuries, Ed then proceeded to make his record speak for his talents, and during the next four years he hit for the cycle in a scoring way.

League champion point-maker during the Cougars' championship season of 1950-51, he has also been second, third and fourth in those other seasons.

Small Mercies Gratefully Received

There isn't a better individual standard in the league to match his 360 points in 307 games and the wonderment grew during that period why the Cougars continued to be blessed with his presence.

None of the fans complained, and why should they? For Eddie was always the give-it-his-best guy on the club.

Now he's got that bid to return to the big time with the New York Rangers. The deal was consummated Tuesday. And it's all that Eddie has been asking, nothing more.

And as the fellow said over his afternoon cup of coffee: "I hate to see the guy go, but Dorohoy sure deserves it."

Most people are playing Canada's chances down as far as the British Empire Games are concerned, but we wonder how many Victorians know that there's at least one potential champion here in our own backyard.

Les Stokell is the chap by name, and he bids for a B.E.G. berth at Hamilton next week. Though there's nothing glamorous about Stokell's specialty—he's a marathoner—coach Bruce Humber of the "Y" track club has enough faith in the former Marine to have had funds subscribed to send him east.

Les Could Make Company for Jim

Stokell has taken everything in stride this side of the mountains, just as he did during the recent conflict between nations.

He was wounded five times while on active duty and missed an opportunity to compete for England in the '52 Olympics when he suffered an accident while mountaineering. He has long since given up some of his old loves—boxing, soccer and mountain climbing, and now at the age of 34 he concentrates only on running. One hundred miles or so a week in his training program.

His idol is England's Jim Peters, considered the peer of the Commonwealth.

And it's just possible, that he'll be matching strides with Peters when the field hits the final lap in the B.E.G. Stadium next month.

JUVENILE BOXLA TEAMS OPEN SEASON TONIGHT

Decked out in their flashy new uniforms, two eager young teams will open the Victoria Juvenile B Lacrosse League season at Stevenson Park.

Oak Bay Shamrocks and City Big Horns open the season tonight, starting at 6:30.

The Oak Bay club is coached by Victoria Shamrock defenseman Nip O'Hearn, while the Big Horns are coached by Gordie Ritchie, former senior B player with Tillamook.

Shamrock goalie Jim Hetherington is supervisor of the three-team league, which is sponsored by Big Horn Co., Strathcona Hotel, Fernwood Garage and Speedway Service.

No Wonder Dave Camera Shy

Don't let anyone fool you. Big race car drivers may have nerves of steel, but they also have their superstitions. And one of the local drivers who has made good at the sport is no exception.

Popular Dave Cooper, 1953 Island big race car and stock car champion now in his ninth year of competitive driving, is now inclined to be superstitious himself following a crash with Bob Simpson last Saturday.

Although he escaped with minor injuries and is expected to be driving again this week, Cooper says he will never again let a photographer snap a picture of him preceding a race.

Every accident the high-flying "Flying Plumber" has suffered has followed having his picture taken prior to races. Dave, who will be 33 this year, drove a little before the war but got his real start in racing at Langford in 1946.

Since then he has raced at such places as Reno, Oakland, California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Portland and Vancouver Island.

Cooper was third in the American Racing Association point standings in 1950 and

GIANTS CATCH BROOKS

The big righthander from Rochester, N.Y., is the brightest new star of the first-place Chicago White Sox. He won his ninth game Wednesday night, 9-4, over Philadelphia. He's been beaten only once.

Keegan, a shaker ball artist, came up with a sore arm last year and had to go on the disabled list for 30 days. Last winter Richards ordered Keegan to go to work in the gym. He was fit and ready when the season opened.

He has started 11 games, finished nine of them and has a fine earned run average of 2.27 in 99 innings.

The triumph in Philadelphia, which included home runs by John Groth, Chico Carrasquel and Sherm Lollar, enabled Chicago to hold its one-game lead over the Cleveland Indians who shaded Washington 1-0. New York defeated Detroit 5-1. Boston beat Baltimore 7-6.

The surprising New York Giants drove into a tie with Brooklyn for first place in the National League as Johnny Antonelli registered his second straight shutout in beating Milwaukee 4-0, while St. Louis tripped Brooklyn 3-0.

Philadelphia won a pair from Chicago 4-0 and 14-6. Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh 4-3 on four home runs.

The Giants jumped off to a 1-0 lead against Warren Spahn in the first inning, added a second tally on Antonelli's run-scoring single in the eighth and two more on three singles and a sacrifice fly in the ninth.

Al Dark collected 4 of the 11 New York hits, a pair of singles and a pair of doubles.

The Dodgers folded before the southpaw slants of Harvey Haddix who joined Keegan as the only nine-game winners in the majors.

Pitchers Dominate Minor Ball

Strikeouts are apparently the theme in Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association bantam and juvenile league action.

Wednesday night at Beacon Hill Park, Dave Emery whiffed 12 batters and gave up nine hits in pacing Vic Van Storage to a 9-0 decision over City Centre Eagles in the bantam league.

Steve Bishop, the losing pitcher, struck out 14 batters down the pitcher's box. Claire Lawrence clubbed three hits for the winners, while Robert Taylor had three safeties for the losers.

Pat Rogers hurled James Bay to a 5-1 victory over Saanich in juvenile league action at MacDonald Park. Jim Leask and Den-Perry tripled for the winners.

Losing pitcher Larry McKinty struck out 13 batters.

He suffered a broken shoulder, broken ribs, burns and a bad shaking up.

In his first year of driving in 1946, Dave drove Stu Pringle's No. 1 car to a second-place point standing at Langford Speedway. Digger Caldwell took first that year.

Cooper, a plumber by trade, is married and he and his wife have three children. Davine, nine; Margo, six, and Steve, two.

He is pointing for another top season again this year in both big cars and stocks and has been showing favorably in meets held so far.

Tyees Home Tonight; Abel's Stand Confusing

Romero Throws No-Hitter

Victoria Tyees, to whom nothing was given in Spokane Wednesday, will give everything away tonight except the centre field flag-pole.

Victims of a double-deck at Spokane Wednesday, 8-0 and 9-4 including a no-hitter tossed at them in the first game of the double-header, Tyees return home tonight, bringing the Yakima Bears with them. And tonight will be Merchants' Night, when close to 100 prizes will be given away to fans attending the game.

Included in the prize list will be an RCA 21-inch TV set, a portable radio with world-wide reception, turkeys, hams, chickens and nylon. Prizes will be given away before the game.

Wednesday's double loss dropped Tyees into seventh place, half a game behind Lewiston Braves.

Only 500 fans were on hand in the afternoon game of the split twin bill to see Ralph Romero weave his no-hitter around the Tyees. Romero officially faced only 27 batters in the game. He struck out four and walked three, three runners being erased by double plays.

'Jet Jab' New Punch in Name Only

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Ezzard Charles turned up his defensive radar today as word emanated from the camp of Rocky Marciano that the heavyweight champion had perfected a "jet jab."

The Rock, who defends against Charles at Yankee Stadium on June 17, is happier than a kid in a candy factory over his new punch. It is a blow, he bubbles, which he throws in short bursts.

But everything takes on a suspicious sound when trainer Charlie Goldman attributes this advance in the fistic arts to the fact that "Rocky" has learned muscular control.

This reminds me too much of the unimpaired Lou Nova, back in the days when he turned to Yoga in preparation for his encounter with Joe Louis. That Nova's Yoga developed to be as effective as a quart of yoghurt left a sour taste in a lot of mouths.

This has been the case all too often when the leather-pushing industry, or workers therein, came up with a new punch.

Some of the duds included Primo Carnera's "secret punch." Da Preem was the most surprised man in the world when he laid a rival on the deck and at one time honestly believed it his "secret punch." Nobody ever actually came up with a name for it, but if they had it would have been 45 calibre.

Along with these must be Rocky Graziano's "flying saucer" blow and Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson's "double uppercut." Another of rather debatable value is the "bolo punch" developed by Cefterino Garcia and popularized of late because of its scenic value alone by Kid Gavilan.

There were, of course, a number of highly valuable trick deliveries and among the first was Bob Fitzsimmons' "solar plexus punch," while Kid McCoy got a lot of creditable mileage out of his "corkscrew punch."

If you didn't happen to be running out of rounds, you might even have gone for

Billy Petrolle's "delayed knockout punch." This was the one in which the Fargo Express pumped home a shot just under the heart—and the opposition folded a round or two later.

Petrolle once fought a pair of two-round exhibitions in a St. Paul gymnasium with two local battlers. Naturally, this worked against him using his "delayed knockout punch" for the benefit of the cash customers, his rivals both being rather cautious in the opening minutes.

But both of them went down in the dressing room later on," swears Jack Hurley, who managed Petrolle.

Be this as it may—there have been too many fancy punches of crowd-drawing but crowd-disappointing value to put much faith in the Rock's new "jet jab" barring a convincing demonstration. Marciano to date has thrown a left hand which had all the grace of a berserk mixmaster.

The "new" Marciano really may have learned "muscular control," and thus acquired a picture left jab of demolishing proportions. But there never will be a substitute for a good solid right hand clout to the whiskers. So, if Rocky still has that atomic right, the "old" Marciano is good enough for me—and probably for Charles, too, as far as that goes.

Idle Kiwanians Take Little League Lead

Defending champion North Kiwanis are now in sole possession of first place in the Little League's National League, thanks to former co-leaders Gyros.

Gyros entered action Wednesday night at Little League Park deadlocked for top spot with Kiwanis, but came up with a defensive display and allowed five unearned runs as they bowed to Odd Fellows, 8-5.

The loss dropped the club into second position, one-half game back of the leaders.

Billy Tonkin picked up his second straight mound win, allowing eight hits, walking one and striking out one. Billy Smith suffered the loss, although he only gave up seven hits, walked two and struck out 11.

Lorne Poirier clubbed a double and single for the winners, while Neil McMurphy cracked out a double in the fifth inning. Ray Benwell had three hits for the losers.

Junior Ball Clubs In Three-Way Tie

All clubs in the three-team Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association junior league are now deadlocked for first place.

Wednesday night at Royal Athletic Park, Eagles blanked Central Cartage, 9-0, behind the four-hit pitching of left-hander Art Green. The victory moved Eagles up to a tie with Skylark Cafe and dropped Cartage to the 500 won-lost percentage.

Green was in fine form as he gave up only four singles, walked eight and struck out 12 in going the distance for the win.

Keith Todd started on the mound for Cartagemen, but gave over to Stewart Stout in the fourth after giving up 10 hits and nine runs. Stout hurled no-hit ball for four and one-third innings.

Dave Ready paced the winners at the plate with three singles in three appearances, while George Hall added one double and one single. Herb Wetherall smacked a double.

Hal Jacobsen had two singles for the losers, while Eric Hel-

Nanaimo Cars To Compete In Stock Meet

A larger entry of stock cars is expected to be competing in this Saturday night's auto racing meet at Shearling Speedway.

Last Saturday, about 20 cars participated in events at the Cobble Hill cut-off paved oval and track officials anticipate that at least 21 cars will be racing for points and purses this week.

From five to seven cars from the Nanaimo stock car club are scheduled to be on hand. Crack Ladysmith driver Digger O'Dell will also be entered for action.

Last week's main event winner, Bob Mawle, and Mike Newton, who roared to victory in the trophy dash and first heat, will again be vying for laurels and should receive stiff opposition from the other speedsters.

Recent improvement to the paved track surface has resulted in faster and closer races, the drivers being less hesitant to hold their speed going around the turns.

Time trials Saturday are scheduled to start at 8.

Mrs. Horsford Ousts Champ

One favorite was eliminated Wednesday in the Uplands Golf Club women's club championship.

Defending champion Mrs. Gordon Verley was ousted from further championship competition when she went down to defeat at the hands of Mrs. A. Horsford. Medalist Mrs. W. S. Smith advanced to the semis by downing Mrs. F. Walton.

Mrs. R. Bramley gained a semi berth by ousting Mrs. T. B. Gibson, and Mrs. G. Silburn advanced over Mrs. M. Whyte.

Other results follow:

CONSOLATION FLIGHT
Mrs. J. Birang defeated Mrs. F. O. Hope.
Mrs. G. Chisholm defeated Mrs. J. P. Davison.
Mrs. P. R. Rhore defeated Mrs. R. H. Anderson.
Mrs. A. R. Roberts defeated Mrs. J. Riddell.

Keen Competition Marks Oak Bay Meet

Close races and a close finish between the competing houses were the order of the day Wednesday at the Oak Bay Junior High School track and field meet.

Cadboro House topped the day's activities, scoring a last-minute victory over the hard-pressing representatives of Discovery and Beaver House.

Cadboro scored a victory in the second-to-last event to finish with 137½ points, to 135½ for Discovery, 130½ for Beaver House and 116½ for Maquina.

Top competitors were Dorothy Macdonald, who won the senior girls' 60 and 100-yard dashes and Dennis Culmore, who won the senior boys' running broad jump, hop-step-and-jump-and-discus-and-was second on the 220.

An unfortunate accident befell Tom Earley as he fractured his hip while he was pulling up after winning the senior boys' 100-yard dash.

Results follow:

High Jump

Jack Girard carried a sparkling four-hitter and his mates backed him by cracking out 12 hits as second-place Joe Fosters whitewashed the Dons, 12-0, Wednesday night in a Senior B Softball League game at Central Park.

Victory moved Fosters within three games of undefeated Tillicums and gave the club a three-game bulge over third-place Marys Coffee Bar. It was Fosters sixth win in eight starts.

City Boxla Peepees To Play at Nanaimo

A Victoria pee-wee all-star lacrosse team will play an exhibition game at Nanaimo Civic Arena this Saturday night starting at 7:30.

Those making the trip are asked to meet outside Memorial Arena Saturday afternoon at 4:30. Anyone willing to assist in transporting the youngsters to Nanaimo is asked to contact Doug Fletcher by phone at 9-3484.

Durelle Rocks Sampson Powell

NEWCASTLE, N.B. (UP)—Yvo Durelle, former Canadian middleweight and light-heavyweight boxing champion, took an easy 10-round decision over Sampson Powell of New York here Wednesday night.

Durelle, a fisherman at nearby Baie Ste. Anne, was able to take almost every round although he was sleepless the previous night riding out a storm on Miramichi Bay.

His slashing body attack in the second round injured ligaments in Powell's side and he was unable to use his right hand effectively for the remainder of the fight.

Swim Frolic

All members of YMCA junior and midget swimming clubs are invited to attend a frolic at the "Y" Saturday night starting at 6. A one-hour swim and get-together has been scheduled.

Nova Scotia Cabinet

HALIFAX, N.S. (BUP) — Premier Harold Connolly revamped the Nova Scotia cabinet Wednesday night by naming Colin H. Chisholm to two posts and assigning Agriculture Minister A. W. Mackenzie to a different job.

Chisholm, 35-year-old Liberal member for Antigonish and previously a back-bencher, was given the double post of minister of agriculture and marketing, and lands and forests. Mackenzie was moved from the agriculture department and will head the highways department.

TB SOCIETY WILL NOT JOIN CHEST APPEALS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Tuberculosis Society will not join any united appeal in fund raising, it was announced Wednesday.

Gordon D. Anderson, chairman, said in his report to the annual meeting: "We don't propose to either stand or fall with the Community Chest."

"We have conferred with Community Chest officials, and all agreed there was no basis for joining a united appeal. Our work is more educational than charitable, anyway."

A report by the society's treasurer showed more than $167,000 had been received from the sale of Christmas Seals in the province, an increase of $10,000 from last year.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY HONORS

Canadian-Born Baxter Receives Knighthood

LONDON (Reuters) — Author Somerset Maugham, poet Edith Sitwell and Canadian-born newspaperman Beverley Baxter are among those listed in the Queen's birthday honors.

Maugham, 80-year-old novelist and short story writer, was named a Companion of Honor. This order, whose 65 members include Sir Winston Churchill, carries no title but ranks high as a mark of Royal favor. Dr. Sitwell was named dame of the British Empire.

A knighthood was conferred on the 63-year-old Baxter, a native of Toronto, now a Conservative member of Parliament as well as a drama critic.

UNION LEADER

Arthur Deakin, trade union leader, was made a member of the Privy Council.

Russell Claude Brock, 50, surgeon who became the first man ever to operate on the inside of the human heart, was made a knight.

Sir Russell Brain, neurologist who attended Sir Winston Churchill last year was made a baron.

Tom Stobart, cameraman who climbed Everest with last year's expedition was named an officer of the Order of the British Empire.

OVERSEAS AWARDS

Nineteen new knighthoods are overseas awards, eight of them for Australia.

Baxter, once a piano salesman in Toronto, later a top editor in Lord Beaverbrook's newspaper empire, is to receive his accolade "for political and public services."

The honor, which comes on the personal recommendation of Prime Minister Churchill, caps Baxter's 34-year legislative and literary career in Britain.

He commented today: "I'm glad it comes while Churchill is still my chief."

Goldstream Man Sells Second Song Recording

By PETE LOUDON

He can't read a note of music and couldn't put a tune on paper, but Rupert Stephens of Goldstream has just sold his second song recording.

His "Bought for a Song," sung by Juliette, top radio and TV songbird, is now in production by Aragon in Vancouver, and sheet music is on the stands.

Endowed with a natural ear for music, Mr. Stephens composes by singing to a musician friend who translates the melody into music manuscript. The tunes and words occur to him simultaneously while he works his Goldstream berry farm.

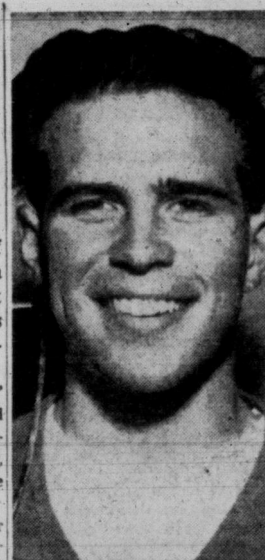

He's a farmer who would rather compose than spread compost. For 25 years he has made a hobby of songwriting while operating berry farms here and at Duncan.

So far he's made more money with berries. In spite of the fact that an earlier song, "The Jacaranda Tree," also made the juke boxes.

STANDS GOOD CHANCE

His new recording stands a good chance of being a financial success, he thinks. The first time the studio manager heard it he was sold.

Mr. Stephens has more songs under way now with the aid of Bunk McEwan, who puts them on paper. But he doesn't expect any of them will take him away from berry growing.

M. McMillan Gets Vic High Leader Cup

The Victoria High Leader Cup was presented to student council president Malcolm McMillan at the school's annual prize-giving Wednesday afternoon.

Vice-principal Harry Dee, who made the presentation, called McMillan "one of the finest boys to have gone through this school."

McMillan took top honors in science and presented the student council report to the assembly.

The Reg Hammond Memorial Award for top biology marks was presented to Doreen Scharf. Valedictorian was John Gittens.

A Beta Hi-Y award was presented jointly to Lorne Payne and Sally McGill, an automotive prize went to Bob Rebbitt, and art prizes were given Gary Cowley, Winnie Wong, Carolyn Kyle, Delores Selin, Charmaine Elgood, Noreen Galbraith, Lyle Martin, and John Cummins.

FLIRT WINNER

TORONTO (CP) — Flirt, grey filly owned by Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto, won the 28th running of the $5,000 My Dear Stakes at Woodbine Park Wednesday. She ran the five furlongs in 59 4/5 seconds and paid $7.20, $4.60 and $3.20.

Top Students, Specialists, Seen 'Trouble' to Business

WINNIPEG (BUP) — Good solid individuals capable of taking a broad view, rather than top-flight students or specialists are needed in Canadian industry, two Ontario University professors said Wednesday.

T. L. Hoskin, placement officer and dean of men at the University of Western Ontario, and Prof. J. E. L. Graham of McMaster University, were speakers at 14 national learned societies' wound up their annual meetings.

Hoskin told the University Counselling and Placement Association that the top-flight student is often more trouble to industry than the "good solid individual." Top-flight students are often more trouble than they are worth, he said because "they have too much zip to settle down happily in a large organization where promotion may be slow."

The old university deal of "aiming at culture and hoping that usefulness would somehow emerge as a by-product" has been exchanged, he said, for "aiming at utility and trusting

Mary Mellish to Stand Trial For Murder of Boy Friend

VANCOUVER (CP) — A girl who witnessed the fatal fight between Mary Mellish and her boyfriend, Sam Messer, the night of May 25 testified in court Wednesday.

"He slapped her across the face. She fell on to the floor... She grabbed a knife... and hit him in the leg."

Miss Mellish, 18, is charged with the knife-slaying of 25-year-old Messer, who died in hospital an hour after the knifing.

The witness at the preliminary hearing which opened Wednesday was Edith Geraldine Miller.

She testified she had gone to Messer's room with "Mary" to get her suitcase.

"We went up into the room. He was on the bed."

"He slapped her face. She slapped him back. He then slapped her back and she fell to the floor."

Miss Miller said Miss Mellish took the knife from a shelf.

After the stabbing, she testified, Messer said: "You kids go."

She stepped out the door, and Miss Mellish told her: "I'll see you tomorrow."

Medical evidence showed that Messer had been stabbed in the leg twice. Both wounds penetrated about 4 1/2 inches. The main artery was severed.

Doctors Seek to Cut Costs for Building

Victoria doctors shareholders in a Medico-Arts Building syndicate decided Tuesday night to put aside plans for an early start on the building, and investigate means of cutting costs.

The 35 doctors planning to build their own medical centre at Cook and Pandora expected the building they hoped would be ready by the end of this year would cost in the neighborhood of $400,000.

Tenders were received last week and the lowest of six was for $542,396.

Shareholders decided that was too much. The meeting rejected its board of directors.

Canada's TV Policy Failure Says Drew

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians are paying an enormous price for a television policy which is not accomplishing what they were told it would, Opposition Leader Drew said.

Speaking during a Commons debate on broadcasting, Mr. Drew said the government has argued in obtaining more than $30,000,000 from parliament for the CBC that the television policy would discourage excessive commercialism and encourage Canadian culture and talent.

"The idea that a Canadian culture can be conveyed by this medium has been the reason for the unusual limits placed on television in Canada," he said.

This apparently referred to reservation of Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver to the publicly-owned CBC for television broadcasting.

Cultural advantages were advanced as arguments for denying Canadians the advantages of competition and selection of television stations, listeners tuned in to the U.S. for 70 per cent of their receiving time.

But even the 30 per cent was not all-Canadian time. At least half the program time broadcast by the CBC involved programs originating in the U.S.

Why we use whole eggs in this better mayonnaise!

Ever notice that the best tasting cakes and pie fillings are the ones that use lots of eggs?

Well, we had the same idea when we developed the recipe for Best Foods Mayonnaise. We asked ourselves, "How can we make Best Foods the very finest tasting product for salads?" The answer was: use freshly broken whole eggs in the making!

And what a difference those whole eggs make... a richer flavor, a smoother texture... just the way mayonnaise should be.

Best Foods doesn't have the strong flavor

you find in the usual salad dressings. The Best Foods flavor is mild and friendly... doesn't out-taste the other good things in your salad.

This mayonnaise isn't filled with starch the way an ordinary salad dressing is. So you can mix Best Foods with cream, fruit juice or what-have-you... make it go farther... save money!

When you taste Best Foods, you'll realize why so many women are glad to pay a little more... and get a whole lot more... for the whole-egg mayonnaise!

Aussies Fear Collapse of Wheat Market

Similar to When U.S. Touched Off Trend in 1931

MELBOURNE, Australia (BUP) — Officials of the Australian Wheat Board warned today that price cutting by Canada and the United States might lead to another collapse of the market similar to that of the 1930's.

One official said the trend was "very similar" to the price slashing war which was touched off in 1931 by reductions in the United States.

"America started a price war when she tried to unload unwanted stocks and it led to a complete collapse of the market," he said.

The United States cut wheat prices 10 cents a bushel last Friday despite what Trade Minister C. D. Howe called "Canadian representations."

Canada followed on Monday with a 10 1/2 cents a bushel reduction. Australian wheat officials were described as "extremely perturbed" over the Canada-U.S. action but were reported waiting to see how the Canadian price cut affects her market in Argentina.

Sir John Teasdale, chairman of the Australian Board was believed preparing to go to London with authorization to offer a spot price in an attempt to win a new contract for Australian wheat. Teasdale said today, however, that he was awaiting advice from his London agent.

"The next move may come from Canada or the United States," Teasdale said. "They're the ones that are competing to unload their hard wheat surpluses. If further price cuts are made they will be bound to affect the price of soft wheat. Therefore, we must be prepared to adjust prices accordingly."

CD Mobilizes 400 for 24-Hour Test of City's H-Bomb Defenses

More than 400-Victoria and area civil defense officials will take part in a full day of civil defense exercises, tying in with similar operations to be held next week in all major centres across both Canada and the United States.

Exercise "Alert" starts at 7.55 a.m. Monday, June 14, and ends at 7.50 a.m. Tuesday. All civil defense services will be functioning, and will work closely with the armed services.

The entire exercise will be as realistic as possible with welfare centres, casualty clearing stations, "yellow" and "red" siren warnings and thorough radio coverage of the area by police, taxi "hams," B.C. Telephone Co. and B.C. Electric Co. networks, in use.

Theory is that enemy planes are approaching. Some get through defenses and the Greater Victoria Civil Defense organization under target area director Leonard Hatcher must cope with the disaster and resulting casualties.

At 9.15 a.m. Monday all government employees will take shelter in basements of their respective buildings with "casualties" treated on the spot. From 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. an exercise will be staged downtown in the Yates and Fort Streets area while a special fire exercise will be held at Ogden Point.

Main control centre will be civil defense headquarters on Cormorant Street.

A first aid station will operate at the Sir James Douglas School and casualties will be routed from the scene of the incident to the station and from there to the Jubilee Hospital which in theory will operate under the hospital disaster plan for emergency treating of injured.

A welfare centre will be set up at the Seventh Day Adventist Hall on Hillside and another in the Langford Community Hall.

At Spencer House a central registry will operate.

By arrangement with the RCMP a limited traffic control will be instituted on the Island Highway at Langford.

The 14 sirens in the district will sound four "yellow" blasts at 7.55 a.m. and at 6 p.m., and "red" blasts 9.15 a.m. and at 6.50 p.m. They will be relayed up-Island through telephone company facilities.

The "yellow" warning tells of approaching planes ahead of time and the "red" warning means a raid is imminent.

The "red" warning is continuous for three minutes and has a warbling sound, while the "yellow" warning consists of four blasts that rise in tone, then cut off.

The exercise will mark the first time the "yellow" warning has been tried anywhere, and both Ottawa and Washington have expressed interests in findings.

To determine the exact result, Mr. Hatcher asks the public contact defense headquarters as to whether they think the "yellow" blasts are adequate.

During the exercise the public will be inconvenienced as little as possible, but they are advised to use the day by checking up on defense preparations—turning off water, light and gas, seeing first aid kits are in order and generally ensuring the whole household has some idea of what to do to protect themselves.

"I take the attitude that if war comes it will be as at Pearl Harbor," said Mr. Hatcher.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Yesterday's "Between Times" consisted of sparkling paragraphs stolen from the very first issue of The Times, 70 years ago.

As a result, many, many kind friends have said to me: "That was the best column you never wrote."

To these many, many, many kind friends, I say, "Thank you," I guess.

There is no truth to the rumor the picture which "decorates" the top of this space is also 70 years old.

Admittedly, it is a little battered and worn, but not quite as ancient as it looks.

It is just tired of asking our hard-working photographers to replace it with a new one.

They are always so busy.

Unless one of our photographers will relent and take a new picture, I think I will change the name of this column to TV Round-up.

The picture would aptly illustrate a discussion on TV ghosts.

But on to more pertinent and important subjects.

I see where Courtney Haddock of the Chamber of Commerce has suggested a guard should be mounted outside the Legislative Buildings.

I am all in favor of this, but it is not clear whether the guard would keep the public out or the legislators in.

Please clarify, Mr. Haddock.

Thomas Richard Henry, the Toronto Telegram's veteran columnist, takes a rather dim view of certain goings-on at Parliament Hill.

He writes: "The other day the Premier of Newfoundland and the Opposition leader put on a display of bad taste that has not been surpassed by even the McCarthy side-show."

"They called each other a liar, a crook, a cheat and other prize epithets of like nature."

"All this took place with the galleries of Parliament full of school children and their teachers who were there to see the House in action."

"If government members feel it is necessary to engage in a verbal brawl of this kind, surely they could have postponed it until a time when future citizens were not listening to them."

I can't say I agree with TRH. It is never too soon to learn the facts of life.

And one of the facts is, in this great democratic system, you have to be able to take it and dish it out if you are to represent the people.

"Pieces of Eight" is a name given to an ancient Spanish silver coin which was worth eight "Reals." This coin was called a "Peso" by the Spaniards and "Loot" by the English, many of whom were Pirates at that time. In those days Pirates sailed under a flag that looked like an Iodine Label and sank ships and captured pretty women and drank grog and stayed up all night and stabbed each other and shot off canons. Believe me, fellows like that would have a hard time keeping an apartment in New York today. The only Pirates around nowadays are the ones in Pittsburgh who are very good-natured and never cause anyone any trouble; including the other teams in the National League.

Boilermakers Back to Work At Dockyard

Talks Planned On Grievances

Members of the Boilermakers' Union who were suspended last Friday for leaving their jobs without permission, voted this morning to return to work.

They picked up their tools at 10 a.m., deadline set by Dockyard regulations if they were to avoid being classed as "resigning voluntarily."

James McConachy, representing the union, said today: "On the suggestion of International President Charles J. MacGowan, who has been in touch with the Defense Department in Ottawa, on a plan to have the men return to work, a vote was taken in Boilermakers' Hall this morning and the men returned to work pending a satisfactory settlement."

An official statement released by the RCN this morning said: "The men are returning to work under the same conditions which prevailed previous to their suspension. Any grievances which may arise concerning premium payment for dirty work and which are submitted in accordance with existing regulations will be considered."

TO OTTAWA

If an agreement cannot be arrived at locally the matter will be referred to naval headquarters at Ottawa for decision.

"Commodore B. R. Spencer, superintendent of Dockyard, has expressed his willingness to meet with the representatives of the workmen concerned next Monday to discuss the grievance procedure outlined in the regulations."

The workers had been suspended since they walked out last Friday in sympathy with seven welders who refused to work unless granted premium pay for dirty work.

The five calendar day (three-working day) suspension ended Wednesday at 10 a.m., but none of the men reported for work at that time. Regulations require workers to return to their jobs within 24 hours, or they are considered to have "voluntarily resigned."

Born 78 Years Ago, Native Daughter Dies

A native daughter of Victoria, Mrs. Eliza Ellen Brown, 956 Green Street, died Wednesday night.

Mrs. Brown is survived by a daughter, Mrs. E. C. Wilson, also at 956 Green Street; two sons, H. W. Brown of Portland, Oregon, and W. H. Brown of Claremont, California; six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at Sands Mortuary on Friday at 2.30 p.m. with Rev. F. E. H. James of Metropolitan Church officiating. Interment will be at Royal Oak.

TODAY'S GARDEN HINT

Keep Greenhouse Humidity High

Wilting of plants in a small greenhouse is not always caused by lack of moisture at the roots.

Lack of moisture in the atmosphere when summer temperatures are high can draw the moisture from the plants into the air and thus cause them to wilt.

Humidity, the condition of the air in the greenhouse with relation to its content of water vapor, is difficult to maintain at a satisfactory level in a small structure.

Conditions are somewhat eased when ventilation is adequate and artificial shading applied. A thorough soaking of benches and floor will then keep the air moist for several hours.

When a greenhouse must be left unattended from morning until evening, something more than an early drenching is necessary. Pans containing water, wet peat moss, or wet sand, are often suggested, but experience shows these to be inadequate in many cases.

My solution of the problem was to use a fine spray of water. Special mist jets, as used in orchid houses, may be purchased, or the handy man

66-YEAR-OLD RESCUES TOT FROM HARBOR

A 66-year-old man jumped into five feet of water to save a four-year-old boy from drowning on Victoria's water front and modestly tried to keep his heroic act a secret.

He made his jump last Sunday morning and the story just got out four days later because his daughter's pride wouldn't let her keep a secret.

Edward Le Bus, 2555 Blackwood, who owns a small wharf near the VMD Bay Street plant and an apartment house at 403 Bay, was doing a job for one of his tenants early Sunday when he noticed two boys on a raft in the harbor.

He went down to the wharf to warn them away when he saw a third youngster playing near the water's edge. He told the boy, a four-year-old, not to play there but when he looked back at the raft, the boy had fallen in the water.

Mr. Le Bus jumped after him, fished him out and carried him home to his parents. Neither the boy nor his lifesaver suffered any ill effects from the cold water.

Nanaimo Mayor To Open Sears' Store June 17

NANAIMO—New $400,000 Simpson's-Sears store here will be opened at 9.45 a.m. June 17 when Mayor George Muir will clip the ribbon across the front entrance and declare the building officially open for business.

Nanaimo pipe band will be on hand. Corsages for the customers, balloons for children, and a general atmosphere of celebration will feature the big store's opening.

A crew of specialists from Toronto, Chicago, and Los Angeles is here to train the new staff, set up counters and lay out displays.

ASSESSMENTS

"But there is no alternative or other method that can be used universally to obtain our objective for the first year."

In order to determine machinery values, all industrial and commercial firms will be asked to make out a declaration form, listing their equipment.

It does not matter whether the machinery of a building is owned by the landlord or the tenant, it must be listed and taxed.

This may lead to widespread revision of rents since, for example, the owner of a building rented to a restaurant operator would have to pay municipal taxes on all fixed kitchen equipment and would want reimbursement from his tenant.

Mr. Wildman acknowledges: "Assessment equalization cannot be obtained on a sound and equitable basis throughout the province in one step. I believe it will take a period of approximately four years for most districts to reach this objective."

SEATTLE TV FEATURES FLO

Victoria television fans will be able to watch Florence Chadwick on KING-TV this week and next.

Miss Chadwick will discuss her coming Strait of Juan de Fuca swim on Bill Mear's program "Sports Screen" on Channel 5 at 7.50 Friday night.

KING will also carry a kinescoped production of the ABC-TV show "Who's The Boss" with Miss Chadwick making a guest appearance. Broadcast time for this program will be 7.30 p.m. Saturday, June 19.

New Ratings Soon On Auto Courts

Deputy Trade and Industry Minister E. G. Rowbottom announced today new ratings of British Columbia's 1300 auto courts and resorts will be available in August.

The regrading followed a complaint by Ald. Earl Adams of Vancouver that current rating of auto courts was "meaningless." He charged one four-star motel in the interior at which he stopped was "disgraceful."

June 29 Set For Saanich Liquor Votes

No Campaigning Seen in Districts

June 29 was confirmed today as the date for liquor plebiscites in both Saanich and Central Saanich.

Residents of both municipalities on that day will vote on whether they want any or all of the four liquor outlets allowed under B.C.'s new Liquor Act.

The plebiscites are being held at the request of the councils of the two municipalities.

The two councils last month felt that the question of whether liquor should be sold in the municipalities should be left to the residents to decide.

NO CAMPAIGN

So far there is no indication that interested groups will campaign either for or against the sale of liquor. In Victoria an extensive campaign was waged by both the "wets and the dries" when a liquor plebiscite was held in the city in April.

Councillor Leslie Passmore said he hoped there would be no campaigning for or against the sale of liquor.

"I hope there is no ballyhoo and the question is decided by a straight vote," he said. "There is no necessity for campaign. People should know by now what they want."

53 Start Friday On 'Y' Bus Tour

Two buses containing 53 members of the YMCA "Golden Nugget" Club will leave Victoria Friday night on a two-week tour.

The buses, which are still short two passengers, will travel about 3,400 miles, touring such places as Salem and Eugene, Oregon; Crater Lake, Reno, Las Vegas, Hoover Dam, Grand Canyon, Zion and Bryce Canyons, Salt Lake City and the Columbia River Highway.

The trip is under the direction of YMCA program director Bob Morrison, who will film many highlights of the tour. Color movies will be taken of the Salt Lake City Mormon Tabernacle and of some of the Hopi Indian dances.

Parents Blame 'Crashers' In Saanich Drinks Case

Parents and teachers of children attending Mount View High School today strongly protested implications that a drinking spree of juveniles at Beaver Lake last Friday night had anything to do with the graduation party at the school.

As pointed out in a Times report Wednesday night, seven youths charged with possession and intoxication were youths who tried to "crash" the graduation party.

The seven youths were to appear in Saanich police court this afternoon.

Deputy Chief of Police Bert Pearson specifically said Wednesday that the charges were laid against "gate-crashers" and that he has to assign extra policemen regularly to curb teenage drinking parties.

Parents of Mount View students and teachers asked more clarification.

CHAPERONED PARTY

They pointed out that the graduation party which was held at Beaver Lake pavilion after the Mount View school dance was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Coppin, 3933 Quadra.

Mount View principal Dr. J. M. Thomas stressed the fact that the students had themselves asked police to attend and see that unwelcome rowdies did not break up the party.

The seven youths who were charged with being in possession of liquor and intoxication never got past the pavilion gates.

"I have every confidence in the integrity, character and behavior of this graduation class," said Dr. Thomas.

A group of five mothers who visited the Times today said Mount View students "deserve a pat on the back."

They commended the orderly nature of the party, their school activities and record of community work.

CONDUCT "EXCELLENT"

Mrs. N. Knudsen, 3841 Carey Road, said six of her children have passed through Mount View and she had never heard reports of anything but excellent student conduct.

Saanich constable Harry Adams said he had been invited last week to lecture the students on dangers of drinking.

EYEWITNESS REPORT

The beach party had allegedly been attended by about 50 youths who were said to have defied police attempts to break it up and had broken bottles and cried abuse at the police.

Gary Walton, however, says there were only 12 or 15 in the party and that none of them were under 21.

He said no bottles were broken on the beach although some were broken when an officer "tackled" a man who was carrying some beer.

No arrests were made. "They confiscated the beer too. It was unopened. Can you do that?" Mr. Walton asked.

Sally Ann Drive Nears Objective

About $1,500 is all that separates the Salvation Army Red Shield Campaign from its $30,000 goal, it was announced by officials today. Hopes are high that the drive which is now 10 days past official closing date, will go over the mark Friday.

Several large collections which were made by the civil servants' division of the canvass are expected to boost the total.

Persons who may have been missed in the canvass can take donations to the campaign office in the Salvation Army Citadel on Pandora.

Shawnigan Lake Power Boat Races Scheduled July 3

Victoria Inboard-Outboard Association have completed plans to hold a regatta July 3 at Shawnigan Lake in front of the former Girls' School.

It will be a local race, but some Vancouver entries are expected. About 25 speed boats are expected to take part.

Hopes that Portage Inlet might be used as a race course were crushed when the association learned that water craft restrictions limit speed in the inlet to four miles per hour.

July 17 and 18, dates of the Sprout Lake regatta, are being left open by association members expecting to participate.

A special club regatta will be held for children at Mill Bay Solarium, July 25.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Are there any wolves on Vancouver Island?—M. H.

A.—Yes. There are many on this island. They have been seen as far south as the Cowichan Valley. They are a sub-species known as the Vancouver Island wolf and are known to roam widely. Those sighted on Salt Spring Island are believed to have swum there.

Q.—There was a piece in the paper the other day about the parks department using a special kind of spray to kill tent caterpillars on trees and shrubs. Will you please tell me what it is?—W. J.

A.—The parks department has been using arsenate of lead from stock on hand, but when the present supply is exhausted intends to switch to DDT, which it considers preferable.

Q.—Will you please tell me in what year was the coronation of King George VI?—Mrs. T.

A.—He was crowned, with his consort, Queen Elizabeth, May 12, 1937. He was then in his 42nd year.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to "The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Tall Italian Glass Bottle
Has Cooling Ice Chamber

By PENNY SAVER

Wonder just when we'll be able to serve iced lemonade on the patio? We're well into the month of June now, and Mr. Sun seems to be making himself mighty scarce.

The stores are full of gadgets for summer, and it's all I can do to keep from buying them.

The tall green Italian bottle for iced summer drinks that I saw in a local gift shop yesterday was my latest temptation. I didn't yield, though, because I just couldn't picture drinking cold lemonade in the chill breezes we've been having lately. Wait till next week's heat wave (call me a dreamer) and the Italian bottle will take the first bite out of my pay cheque. It won't be a very big bite, though, because the bottle is only $4.95.

Read on, and you'll realize what a good buy it is. The tall bottle of green glass rests in a stand of woven raffia, which extends halfway up the sides for protection's sake. Raffia is in natural tone with touches of bright reds, greens, blues and yellows to perk it up. The bottle is plugged in three places: at the top of the slender neck, into which you pour the drink; at the 'spout,' where you pour; and at the ice chamber. The ice chamber is located at the centre of the bottle. Fill it up and it will keep your lemonade fresh and chill, no matter how hot the day.

I think that lots of folks are going to be pleased with the English table mats, made of pressed woods and featuring many various pictures. There are "The Cries of London," hunting scenes, old sailing vessels and others. A firm and solid lacquer protects the wood from the heat of hot dishes. The mats come in three sizes, selling at $1.50, $1.75 and $1.95.

Any article that is a combination of two things in one is always a bargain. Small apartment dwellers usually find space so limited that they welcome any item that will serve two purposes, yet takes the space of one.

For a less-cluttered living room, own a wrought iron candlestick that pretties up the mantelpiece or dinner table, yet can serve as a holder for cigarettes or ashes, if turned upside down... $2.75!

AS WE LIVE

Bachelor Is Afraid
Of Feminine Pursuit

By ELIZABETH E. HURLOCK, PhD

When a man reaches the early 30's and has not married, he is likely to think that every young woman he meets is out to get him. This puts him on the defensive. How to handle such a problem is the question raised by the young woman who writes:

Hurlock

(Q)—"I have a very good job and am very much interested in my work. However, I do enjoy the company of the opposite sex and I do have dates with some men I meet through my work or through the church club I belong to. I have never thought that I behaved as if I were trying to catch a husband. In fact, my mother has always told me not to be forward with young men and I have followed her advice."

"Now, my problem is this. Recently, I met a very nice man of 32. He is unmarried and likes to date and have fun. The first time he took me out, he told me he wasn't a marrying man. This embarrassed me because I wondered if he thought I was trying to get him. It has made me rather self-conscious every time I have been with him since, and I am afraid he will lose interest in me and think I don't care for him. How should I handle this problem?"

(A) Treat this young man as a friend, but not as a possible future suitor. Accept his word for his lack of interest in marriage, and don't get up any hopes that he will change. He may not.

You have no reason to blame yourself for his warning or to feel self-conscious about it. You doubtless had nothing whatsoever to do with it. It was based on the young man's previous experiences with other girls which has made him take a defensive attitude.

To avoid embarrassing experiences for himself, he is laying his cards on the table on his first date. You can then take them or leave them. He does not want you to feel that future dates with him mean anything more than an opportunity to have a good time.

So long as you like him and enjoy his companionship, keep on accepting his invitations. Should you, however, find that you are falling in love with him, drop him if you want to save yourself many heartaches. The gamble is too big to take.

As a special service to our readers, Dr. Hurlock has written a 64-page booklet, "You and Your Problems." For your copy send 15 cents in coin with a self-addressed stamped envelope to this newspaper.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Bad Breath Can Be A Serious Problem

Sometimes the advertisements for products which are supposed to sweeten the breath seem so extreme that we laugh at them.

Perhaps the victim is a wallflower at a dance, looking wistfully at the girls who are dancing, with an expression on her face which would scare the stag line even if she did not have halitosis. Or maybe it is a young man who is being disdainfully brushed off by his heart throb.

Yet these advertisements are not really extreme because an unpleasant breath can have serious and long reaching impact on one's association with others, and this affects all of our lives. It may penalize you socially, in business or in love.

I do not suppose that all of the causes of halitosis are known but some of them are.

Today let me give you a few and also remind you that many persons have halitosis and do not know it because no one tells them. The old saying "a little child will tell you" is quite true to life. Even your best friend may hesitate. Ask your family about this.

Poor mouth hygiene can cause halitosis. If you are not careful and faithful about brushing your teeth, the result may well be an unpleasant breath. Diseased or decayed teeth may also be a cause.

Infected tonsils or sinuses can be the culprits. Indigestion is an important offender. Therefore, all of these possibilities should be investigated. If your tonsils or teeth or sinuses need treatment, have it. If you have been careless about brushing your teeth, change your habits. Use not only a toothbrush but dental floss and a good tooth powder or cream.

If you have indigestion, see your doctor, for the sake of your health as well as your breath.

Plans Made for a St. Alban's Day Fete

All groups in St. Alban's Church are working for the St. Alban's Day Fete to be held on June 23 in the parish hall, Ryan Street, commencing at 2:30 p.m. Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh is general convener and there will be stalls of home cooking, groceries, garden produce, work and white elephant. The AYPA will direct a children's stall and fish pond; the young ladies' guild will serve afternoon tea. During the afternoon a feature will be judging of pies by Mrs. Nova Graham of the B.C. Electric home service department. The evening entertainment will have a children's fancy and comic dress parade and the Victoria Boys' Band will play selections. The men's club will conduct games and the young ladies' guild will serve refreshments. There will also be an auction.

Vacationing in Victoria are Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher, of Detroit, Mich. Making the journey by plane, they stopped en route at Minneapolis, where Mr. Fisher visited his sister. While in Victoria, they will visit their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dodd, and are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Blair, 1364 Hillside Avenue. Over the week-end, they visited many up-Island points, and Mrs. Fisher is planning some fishing expeditions.

Repeat Vows at Cobble Hill

In a quiet ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church, Cobble Hill, Tuesday afternoon, Frances Marion Hundey, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cosmos Knight, Cobble Hill, was united in marriage with Harold Reginald Birkett Newton, eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Newton, Cobble Hill, formerly of Winnipeg. Rev. E. Willis officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pale blue nylon gown over satin with matching hat and white accessories. Peach-toned gladioli and lily of the valley formed her bouquet.

Her only attendant was Miss Constance Bonner, Cobble Hill. Best man was Wilfred Jeffray, Mill Bay.

As the newlyweds descended the church steps the bride was given a good luck token by little Miss Anne Simpson.

Reception was held at the

Plans Made for July Wedding

Latin America Heading Toward Better World of Understanding

Mrs. J. F. Friesen, in addressing the Women's Canadian Club, Wednesday afternoon, gave a clear picture of the Latin American and his environment.

"There are very few who have set out, as they did, on a career of independent nationhood," she said, "with such initial disadvantages."

"Self-government and democracy are not to be won overnight. But the events of the last half century have wrought deep changes in the political and economic life of the major republics."

The speaker pointed out that the rest of the world is beginning to realize that Latin America constitutes one of the richest raw material producing regions of the world.

"The Latin American states themselves are increasing in wealth and power," she said, "and in political and economic maturity. They are heading toward a better world of justice and understanding."

Mrs. Friesen went on to describe the vast natural resources of the Latin American countries, mentioning that fifty per cent of the world's coffee supply comes from Brazil. The entire United States would fit into Brazil, she said, but Latin America has a much smaller population—about 130,000,000—crowded near the coasts.

She fascinated her audience with a description of emerald mining.

"You find an emerald vein and follow it to a pocket. If you find the pocket, you've hit the jackpot. You just reach in and pull out several dozen emeralds ready to be set," she said. "Emeralds are three times as valuable as diamonds."

The speaker outlined physical, social, political, and economic reasons why the Latin American countries, in spite of all their natural wealth, are undeveloped compared to their northern neighbors.

One reason, she said, is that there is very little coal. Another is the retarded communication system, for the building of highways and railroads is complicated by the second highest mountain system in the world, thick jungles, and deserts.

Only four of the twenty Latin American countries have a white majority in population:

the others are mainly Indian and Haiti is negro and more than 90 per cent illiterate.

Retiring president, Mrs. S. Farr introduced the speaker and she was thanked by Mrs. A. J. Butterfield.

Games and a social evening. Friday at 7 p.m. in the Junction Room for elderly people. Anyone may take elderly friends there for a treat.

Claymore of Bridegroom's Father Cuts Four-Tiered Wedding Cake

A claymore which belonged to the bridegroom's father was used to cut the four-tier wedding cake of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rae McDonald, who were married recently in St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Sidney.

The couple exchanged vows in a ceremony conducted by Rev. R. Melville. The bride, Valerie Jean, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gray, Sidney, and the groom is the son of Mrs. S. J. McDonald, 652 Oliver Street, Victoria, and the late Mr. McDonald.

As the couple signed the register, Miss Mimi Bavin sang "O Perfect Love." Organist was Mrs. Lorne McKenzie. The bride's father gave her in marriage.

She wore a gown of white satin with overskirt of misting nylon net. The fitted bodice featured a V-shape yoke of nylon net, outlined with nylon lace. An Elizabethan headdress studded with pearls, held her floor-length veil of illusion net bordered with lace, and she carried a double bouquet of gardenias, carnations and orange blossoms, in an all-white theme.

Sister of the bride, Miss Patricia Gray, was maid of honor in a gown of yellow net and lace over taffeta, with bouffant, full-length skirt and matching lace bolero. She had a spray of Kokomo carnations in her hair and carried a matching bouquet.

Bridesmaid, Miss Cathy Bless, Penitence, was gowned similarly in blue with blue carnations. Another sister of the bride, Miss Susan Gray, as junior bridesmaid in a gown of turquoise taffeta with net overskirt and pink carnations forming her hair spray and bouquet.

Cecil Gould was best man. Ushers were Ian Paul and Thomas Heppell.

The Sidney Quartet provided music for dancing at a reception held in the Sidney Hotel. John Bosher proposed the toast to the bride. Sweetheart roses, lily of the valley and pink Pyrethrum decorated the bridal table.

For receiving guests, mother of the bride wore a dress of violet nylon and lace with navy accessories and a corsage of carnations and gardenias. The mother of the groom wore a pastel pink linen suit, white accessories and corsage of carnations and gardenias.

For a honeymoon motor trip to Washington and Oregon, the bride donned a silk print dress of green, and light wool coat of the green lined with matching printed silk. She had green and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald will live in Victoria.

"Mrs. Roach was to be killed last Saturday night," Gordon said, "and our man had used up all the excuses he could for not having killed her before."

"Deputy Floyd Richey and I went to her house and sat with her all night, but nothing happened."

"We knew we had to act fast to get to the men behind it so we took Mrs. Roach to a home in Lakeland and made it look like a kidnapping."

"This gave our man a chance to get to the contact man and tell him the job had been done. It worked like a charm."

Welch Near Tears At McCarthy Thrust

'If There Is a God in Heaven, This Will Do You No Good', Counsel Tells Senator

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Joseph N. Welch said today that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's "cruel" attack on a young attorney in his law firm has left him "tired and sick."

But he will not quit as the army's special counsel in the army-McCarthy hearings. "You don't leave your client because of a thing like that," he said.

The 63-year-old attorney, whose humor and needling questions have become famous during the hearings, was visibly and deeply hurt by McCarthy's explosive and unexpected attack on the young lawyer, Frederick G. Fisher. Welch's entire manner changed abruptly.

"I don't see how in the name of God you can fight anybody like McCarthy," he told reporters after the exchange Wednesday afternoon. "I never saw such cruelty . . . such arrogance." He was almost in tears as he spoke.

HITS HARD

McCarthy sent the spectacular hearings to their highest emotional pitch when he suddenly declared that Fisher belonged to "three or four years" to an organization "named as the legal bulwark of the Communist party." He referred to the National Lawyers Guild.

He made the statement after Welch had been hammering hard in an effort to get Roy M. Cohn, McCarthy's chief counsel, to say under oath that he should have been quick to notify the administration of subversives in government.

"Until this moment, senator," Welch said slowly and with feeling: "I think I never really gauged your cruelty or your recklessness . . . Little did I dream you could be so reckless and so cruel to do an injury to that lad."

THE RECORD

Actually, Fisher joined the Guild in 1947, graduated from Harvard in 1948, and quit the Guild in 1950. The senior partner of his firm, C. Keefe Hurley, last night called him a man of "unquestioned" integrity. The Newton Republican city committee offered its complete support.

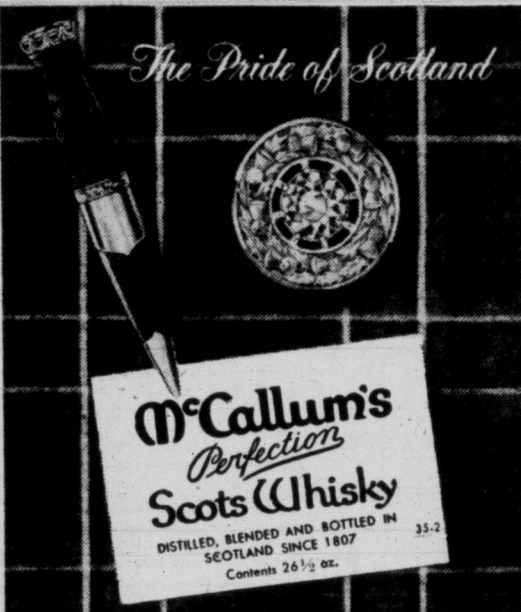

Fisher himself declined to discuss the incident.

"I've decided it's better for

McCarthy also said Welch had tried to foist Fisher on the subcommittee as an assistant counsel for the investigation. But acting Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R., S.D.) quickly denied this.

Welch told McCarthy: "You have sat within six feet of me and could have asked me about Fred Fisher . . . If there is a God in heaven it will do neither you nor your cause any good. I will not discuss it further."

What's New at Eaton's

Meet Dr. Arrow

In a world of specialists, Dr. Arrow, the "Shirtologist" is unique. He manages to solve one of man's most nagging troubles . . . ill-fitting shirts . . . in the most pleasant of ways. For what could be more pleasant than wearing one of Arrows' white shirts with collars that not only fit like a charm, but help make a man look his very handsomest, and therefore feel his very best. Naturally, we feel very proud to have Dr. Arrow's White Shirt Clinic here in EATON'S Shirt Department now . . . and with Father's Day a mere eight shopping days away, the women of the family ought to consult Dr. Arrow about the shirt problems of the men in their lives. Every Arrow shirt "prescribed" has anchored buttons that stay put . . . fabrics that are "Sanforized" for lasting fit . . . Mitoga tailoring for the easy body-conforming fit he wants.

Collars for Everyone

Regular collars, spread collars, low-slope collars . . . collars carefully prescribed to flatter his build and his facial characteristics. Here you see the Arden . . . a short point fused collar with medium spread, with single or French cuffs, of fine cotton broadcloth. You will also find such well-known collar styles as Dart, Far, Drew and Dorset. Priced at 4.95.

Is He Tall and Thin?

. . . or, short, or wide, or both? Dr. Arrow can treat physique problems, too, not just with the correct collar size and style, but with the correct sleeve length, and since every Arrow shirt is Mitoga tailored, he gets natural tapering at the waist to fit his body no matter what size he wears.

Collaritis Sufferers

. . . new relief from this "dread disease," with Dr. Arrow's famous cure, "Non-Curl" collars that won't curl so much as a tip, stay flat as a 5¢ stamp even when you feel wilted. Dr. Arrow also cures Shrinkitis ("S-a-n-i-t-y-z-e-d"), Bagittis (Mitoga tailoring), Sleeveitis (correct lengths) and "Pop"itis (buttons are anchored on).

Arrow's "Dacron" Besides having Arrow's careful collar styling, sleeve-stitching and Mitoga tailoring . . . this shirt is of wonder-washing Dacron. A boon to men who travel a lot . . . and to working wives who don't have much time to fuss with shirts. Just swirl this shirt through warm water, rinse, hang to dry . . . doesn't need so much as a touch of the iron! White only, sizes 14 to 16½ in several collar styles: Illustrated the "Ardsley," each 12.95

1954's Unsold Wheat May Set New Record

SEEDING STILL SLOW

OTTAWA (BUP)—Bureau of Statistics crop report indicated today that western Canadian wheat farmers will harvest something less than a bumper crop for the first time in three years.

The crop report, prepared from estimates sent in by selected correspondents, told for the third straight week of cold, wet weather in prairie districts holding up seeding and slowing the growth of crops already in the ground.

Republicans In New Move To End Probe

WASHINGTON (UP)—Republicans launched a new plan today to speed questioning of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy about his fight with the army and to end the marathon hearings.

McCarthy was abruptly sworn as a witness late Wednesday after he unleashed a slashing, drama-packed attack on army counsel Joseph N. Welch in the emotional high point of the 31-day-old hearings. (See story, Page 22.)

Acting chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-Ill.) called a closed meeting of the Senate investigating subcommittee today to consider ways of ending the hearings.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) who has vainly sought before to find a way to end the dispute which has split the Republican party, planned to make a new try at the meeting.

Court Action Looms Over Douk Children

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP)—Court action will be launched here Friday to take five—possibly 10—children from Sons of Freedom Doukhobor parents who defied court orders to send the children to school. It was reported today.

The action will be taken by provincial welfare officers under the Protection of Children Act.

School-age children from the nearby Freedom colony of Gilpin are involved.

Yacht Aground

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—An 80-foot Seattle yacht—the Charbus II—is reported to have suffered only slight damage when she went aground near here today.

U.S. Looks Toward Rigid Quotas; British Paper Hails Price Slash

OTTAWA (CP)—Stiffening world competition and declining exports may force Canada to carry over into the next crop year the biggest mountain of unsold wheat in history. The crop year begins Aug. 1.

That development, indicated by the government's latest wheat figures, may mean a long delay in closing the 1953-54 wheat pool and a long wait by western farmers for the collection of profits from the Canadian wheat board.

The government's latest figures, issued today by the bureau of statistics, showed that Canadian wheat exports dropped by 25 per cent in the first nine months of the current crop year.

Canada's price cut, announced Monday, does not seem to have attracted any rush of customers. Stocks available for export and carryover were at a peak of 637,000,000 bushels May 1, higher by 26 per cent than the 505,100,000 reported for May 1, 1953, the bureau said.

Exports for May are believed to have been about 20,000,000 bushels and if they remain the same for June and July, Canada may enter the new crop year August 1 with about 577,000,000 bushels of unsold wheat, the highest in history, and about 60 per cent higher than the 369,200,000-bushel carryover August 1, 1953.

In Washington, a new forecast on the size of this year's United States wheat crop, prepared for issuance by the agriculture department late today, will start wheels turning for a crop that size would be about 238,000,000 bushels smaller than last year's production, but it would be perhaps 70,000,000 bushels more than may be needed to supply domestic and export markets for the marketing year ahead.

(A month ago the department forecast this year's wheat crop at about 330,000,000 bushels. A crop that size would be about 238,000,000 bushels smaller than last year's production, but it would be perhaps 70,000,000 bushels more than may be needed to supply domestic and export markets for the marketing year ahead.)

Trade Minister Howe said in the Commons Wednesday that Canada will fight to maintain her current share of world wheat markets even if it means another cut in prices.

He said the government will not make a fetish of holding current prices if that means substantial loss of customers.

But he cautioned members against becoming panicky because of his statement.

"We intend to be competitive," he said. "We think we have some control over the competitive situation."

"The North American supplies are the largest in the world and I do not think we need panic if one country decides to cut its price below ours. It is almost inevitable that we hold some kind of blanket control over the smaller countries."

Mr. Howe said there were certain fallacies he wanted to correct. There were no indications that western farmers suffered hardship because of the price cuts.

As for giving wheat away to "starving millions," he could not find such millions. India and Pakistan once had required gifts of wheat, but they now had good crops and did not want wheat.

Moreover, overseas countries in the sterling area did not want to buy dollar-area wheat for sterling. The U.S. had made such offers and got few acceptances. Sterling-area countries generally wanted to pay in dollars for dollar-area wheat. Use of sterling meant the countries merely were accumulating new debts.

Canada, he maintained, is not losing world markets. The world demand for wheat had declined somewhat and there were new exporters, such as Sweden and Turkey. But Canada was maintaining her share of total sales.

Prices of Canadian and American wheat and maintains that Australia and Argentina will eventually follow this price trend.

"In a world glutted with wheat, these cuts are a healthy development," the independent right-wing newspaper comments.

"Next week the International Wheat Council meets in London to discuss the drop in prices. No doubt new attempts will then be made to persuade Britain to support a fixed, artificial price for wheat."

"The answer to any request of that kind should be a firm and final 'no.' Britain should keep clear of all such price rings."

FRENCH VOTE ON SATURDAY

PARIS (AP)—The spectre of a prolonged cabinet crisis threatens France and the Geneva conference today. Premier Joseph Laniel, for the third time in five weeks, has demanded a vote of confidence from the angry National Assembly.

The deputies will vote Saturday, and observers generally are pessimistic about Laniel's chances. The premier survived his last confidence vote May 13 by two votes.

Ike Says U.S. Should Not Start a War

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today said the French Union forces in Indo-China are in possibly better defensive shape than before the fall of Dien Bien Phu, but undoubtedly could be much aided by outside military help.

However, the president told his press conference he still does not believe the United States should start a war.

Instead, he declared, the United States should keep its military reserves highly mobile, ready to move to any point of danger, and to continue waging the attack on Communism on a world-wide front with intellectual, economic and spiritual weapons as well as military ones.

MALTESE SNUB PARADE FOR QUEEN ELIZABETH

VALETTA, Malta (Reuters)—The entire Nationalist government of Malta, including Premier George Borg Olivier, today boycotted Queen Elizabeth's birthday parade in Malta.

They were protesting against parade orders which said members of three services attending should not salute during the Maltese anthem, but only during "God Save the Queen."

All members of the cabinet were scheduled to attend the parade, held to commemorate the official birthday of Queen Elizabeth.

Probe Demanded Into Power Policy

'CHANGE-OR WE FAIL' EDEN TELLS MOLOTOV

GENEVA (UP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today told the Communist bloc in the Indo-China peace conference that if their position remains unchanged, it is the duty of the conference to admit to the world that "we have failed."

His sharply-defined, 10-minute speech put the Reds on notice that his determined seven-week pursuit of compromise between East and West is near an end.

The clear implication was that the Communists must offer some form of compromise here and now, or Britain will join the United States in building up a defensive alliance in southeast Asia against Communist aggression.

B.C. Cities to Use New Tax-Levy Formula

Assessments to Follow 1953 Values; Fixed Machines To Be Taxed for Schools

Last year's replacement cost will be the basis of municipal tax assessments in B.C. next year.

Also revealed today was implementation of an earlier provincial government decision to add commercial and industrial machinery on the municipal tax rolls, also at 1953 values.

In both cases, 60 per cent of assessment will be the maximum on which taxes may be levied.

Effect of the changes should be to broaden the base of municipal taxes, and to make more revenues available to municipalities from residential and commercial properties within their borders.

Municipalities must use the taxes from fixed machinery to finance school costs, unless the councillors specifically include the revenue in the municipality's general fund.

The changes were revealed in a provincial government assessment department announcement that in order to bring about some equalization of assessment next year, all properties in 1955 are to be assessed at 60 per cent of 1953 values.

TO DEVELOP FORMULA

K. E. B. Wildman, B.C. assessment commissioner, said officials of his department were now conducting spot checks of residential properties in every municipality to determine the present level of assessment.

Once that is determined, a formula will be worked out which will be applied to the entire assessment roll in each municipality so as to bring it, theoretically, in line with the desired level of 60 per cent of 1953 values.

ASSESSMENTS TO RISE

In most municipalities this will mean assessed values will go up. Victoria will not be so much affected as others since it has just undergone a reassessment survey when property values were worked out on a 1940-41 basis. Some municipalities, however, have assessment standards dating back to depression years.

Sample appraisals of commercial and industrial buildings will not be made this year due to lack of time, but will be subject to revision by formula.

"If the municipal district has been assessed and maintained equitably in the past," Mr. Wildman said, "the resultant value obtained by the percentage application (formula) will still leave an equitable assessment roll."

"If the assessment has not been maintained in an equitable manner, the inequalities existing will be aggravated."

Laing, Webster Ask Full Investigation

The resignation of James D. W. Blyth from the B.C. Power Commission today became a major political issue in British Columbia.

Both Liberal Leader Arthur Laing and CCF Leader Arnold Webster have demanded an investigation following Mr. Blyth's statement Wednesday that his resignation "was mainly prompted by concern for the future of public power" in the province.

Premier Bennett has flatly denied that the Social Credit government will "sell out" the power commission to the privately-owned B.C. Electric.

"As long as I am premier," Bennett said, "the power commission will never be sold out entirely, or in part, to any private company."

The premier said he was "amazed" at Blyth's resignation and said plans were being formulated for "rapid expansion" of the power commission.

A. E. Grauer, president of the B.C. Electric, issued a statement denying that his firm "has any designs on the B.C. Power Commission."

Liberal Leader Laing said: "In the light of Blyth's statement, and as the power commission has done an amazingly good job, particularly in rural electrification, we should have a thorough investigation."

Mr. Grauer, in a statement on the private vs. public power issue, said that: "I am able to state categorically that the BCE has no policy of encroaching into territory of the B.C. Power Commission."

Mr. Webster accused the B.C. Electric of "persistent lobbying during the spring session of the Legislature." He said BCE officials were "very prominent" in Victoria at that time, giving rise to CCF suspicions that the Social Credit government is "lukewarm to public power."

"The blank denials of the premier that his government does not intend allowing the BCE to move in on the power commission are not good enough," he said.

"It would appear that he is prepared to weaken the position of the commission in favor of public power."

Commissioners Never Consulted

Meanwhile, a former member of the commission has revealed that commissioners were never officially consulted on three-year-old plans of the BCE to install a $5,000,000 submarine cable to bring mainland power to southern Vancouver Island.

The former commissioner said the cable is "premature" and that if the commission had not been held at a "standstill" on Island development plans for the past three or four years, there would be no need for the cable at this time.

He said: "Something very funny is going on. Don't forget, the BCE can wreck the power commission by means other than buying it out."

"If we have a dry season this year, and the water storage runs short, they can say we broke our contract with them, and move right in," he added.

William Moore, CCF MLA for Comox, said the BCE is being allowed to "skim the cream off the top" through a government contract binding the commission to supply power to the firm for distribution to the rich residential areas of southern Vancouver Island.

Moore said Nanaimo consumers, who buy power from the commission, pay far less than Victoria users, who are supplied BCPC hydro through the B.C. Electric distribution system.

He also challenged the right of the government to withhold information concerning the impending announcement about the underwater cable from the legislative committee on Buttle Lake.

"Why were we not provided that information?" he asked. "It has a major bearing on plans for damming Buttle."

"The B.C. Electric has got to be stopped," he said.

Other Island Members Comment

Other Island MLAs, among them Dr. Larry Giovando (PC—Nanaimo-Islands), Robert Strachan (CCF—Cowichan-Newcastle), and George Gregory (Liberal—Victoria), demanded an immediate start on Buttle Lake, and a complete statement in the issue from the premier.

A thinly-defined line, running through Duncan, Cobble Hill and other southern Island centres, is the dividing boundary between BCE and power commission territory on the Island.

In the past, there have not been any border battles. But the BCE's submarine cable, which will carry a powerful flow of power from its vast mainland grid, is seen as the first materialization of the company's plans for Island expansion.

The former B.C. Power Commission member said that if Buttle Lake had been given the construction go-ahead, and completed on schedule, there would be "no necessity for many years for the $5,000,000 cable."

He said BCE customers in Victoria and Vancouver, the two largest residential consumer areas in the province, are "paying the highest power rates in Canada to the BCE."

"Some people think we were doing too good a job," he said.

UNNECESSARY CONFUSION CREATED

Tyee President Charges Abel With Detrimental Statements

Club president Arthur Cox of the Victoria Tyees today scored league president Robert Abel of the Western International Baseball League for creating unnecessary confusion in league ranks.

The charge arises out of recent persistent reports that WIL faces re-alignment because of insolvency of some clubs, but more particularly concerns accusations made Wednesday against Tyees in a directive issued by Abel in which it was also stated that the league would disband or be re-organized.

In a telegram to all league clubs, Abel charged the Tyees with:

"... Knowingly failing to report to the league any pay percentages collected by them. Victoria admits they withhold over $600 which belongs to the league."

The money concerned is a league assessment on home gates.

In his counter-charge Cox stated:

"The reason Victoria has withheld paying the league percentages collected by them is that we have taken a road trip to Calgary and Edmonton at an expense of approximately $2,500, and we are given to understand that some other teams in the league have indicated that they are not going to take this trip owing to the expense."

"Unless all teams are willing to adhere to the schedule then our club feels that we are entitled to have a refund of a portion of the cost of the prairie trip."

Regarding the intimation that other teams have indicated they will not make the prairie trip it is common talk that Salem and Lewiston have taken such a stand.

Regarding Abel's directive that "if the WIL cease to operate as of June 14, 1954 and later denied by Abel, Cox said:

"I am at a loss to understand why the statement and decision was made by president Abel at this time when a league meeting of all club delegates is to be held in Spokane on Tuesday, June 12."

Rumor has that the four Canadian teams may be dropped are completely unfounded as far as the Tyees are concerned, Cox said.

Cox and general manager Reg Patterson will attend the WIL meeting in Spokane with an "open mind."

And although indications are strong that the league may be re-aligned because of the financial troubles facing some of the clubs, the Victoria club plans to refuse to pay the league dues until the expenses occasioned by the prairie trip are proportionately equalized by clubs which have made the trip to Spokane.

Calgary.

At Least 3 Dead in St. Louis Blast

ST. LOUIS (AP)—At least three persons were killed and 29 or more injured in an explosion in a pharmaceutical company which rocked southside St. Louis today and spread fire to a large laundry nearby.

Police said it was possible 20 persons may have lost their lives. They expected to be digging through the debris late into the night in search of victims.

First estimates of the damage placed it at about $250,000.

St. Laurent Not Discussing Promises

OTTAWA (BUP)—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent today avoided an opposition member's question about a Liberal promise in the election campaign last year.

Julian Ferguson (PC, Simcoe North) said that Liberals had promised that full employment would be maintained in the Great Lakes shipyards, and he asked what "miracle" the government was going to perform to provide work for the yards which Ferguson said were now mostly idle.

"I do not think we should revive the election campaign in the House of Commons at this time," Mr. St. Laurent said.

Rain Aids Firefighters Save Village

GERALDTON, Ont. (BUP)—Three-quarters of an inch of rain helped firefighters today in their battle against a raging blaze which threatened the tiny village of Calstock, 20 miles west of Hearst.

Fifty adults and children, almost the entire population, fled their homes yesterday in the face of the two-mile fire front. Only a few employees of the Arrow Timber Company and the owner of the general store remained in the village to fight the fire.

Prince Albert Floods Worst Yet Seen

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Raging floodwaters of the Copeau River and Greenwood Creek and the Red Deer River, described by residents as "the worst we've ever seen," have all but isolated the town of Porcupine Plain, 100 miles southeast of Prince Albert.

The Red Deer River has burst its banks and the district has been cut off from the town since Monday night.

34 Striking British Seamen Deported

MONTREAL (CP)—Thirty-four British seamen who staged wildcat strikes on the British freighters Sheldrake and Cibou last week were deported today aboard the Greek Lines steamer Canberra, immigration authorities said.

Last year's replacement cost will be the basis of municipal tax assessments in B.C. next year.

Also revealed today was implementation of an earlier provincial government decision to add commercial and industrial machinery on the municipal tax rolls, also at 1953 values.

In both cases, 60 per cent of assessment will be the maximum on which taxes may be levied.

NEW COMMITTEE

However, early this year another committee was formed. It comprises Agriculture Minister K. Kiernan, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black and Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

KAMLOOPS INCIDENT

Some association members said today the government's refusal of a hearing on job grievances and wage demands stems from an incident which occurred in Kamloops last year. Public Works Minister P. A. Gagliardi reportedly announced from his church pulpit in the interior city that "a government job is open to anyone who wants to apply."

The association protested, demanding that the in-service ap-

Say BCPC Under Threat

TORONTO (CP)—James D. W. Blyth, who resigned recently as financial officer of the British Columbia Power Commission, reiterated today that his main reason for leaving was his fear for the expansion of public power in the coast province.

Mr. Blyth said he had received a long-distance telephone call today from Mr. Del Grauer, president of the privately-owned BCPC.

He said Mr. Grauer told him of reports in B.C. newspapers "implying that I resigned because I feared an immediate grab by the B.C. Electric of the British Columbia Power Commission."

"Such a grab," said Mr. Blyth, "cannot take place and was not my fear."

"My sole statement remains that I mainly feared for the future (expansion) of public power in B.C."

The resignation of James D. W. Blyth from the B.C. Power Commission today became a major political issue in British Columbia.

Both Liberal Leader Arthur Laing and CCF Leader Arnold Webster have demanded an investigation following Mr. Blyth's statement Wednesday that his resignation "was mainly prompted by concern for the future of public power" in the province.

Premier Bennett has flatly denied that the Social Credit government will "sell out" the power commission to the privately-owned B.C. Electric.

"As long as I am premier," Bennett said, "the power commission will never be sold out."

Liberal Leader Laing said: "In the light of Blyth's statement, and as the power commission has done an amazingly good job, particularly in rural electrification, we should have a thorough investigation."

Mr. Grauer, in a statement on the private vs. public power issue, said that: "I am able to state categorically that the BCE has no policy of encroaching into territory of the B.C. Power Commission."

'Immediate Clarification' Asked

Laing's demand was echoed by CCF chieftain Webster, who asked the premier for an "immediate clarification" of the government's stand on public power.

"Public power's success in providing for isolated areas is deeply resented by private enterprise, particularly the B.C. Electric, which is growing more and more avaricious," Mr. Webster said.

Mr. Grauer, in a statement on the private vs. public power issue, said that: "I am able to state categorically that the BCE has no policy of encroaching into territory of the B.C. Power Commission."

BCE STATEMENT ON POWER ISSUE

VANCOUVER (CP)—President A. E. Grauer of the B.C. Electric Company today denied the BCE has any designs on the government-operated B.C. Power Commission.

He said in a formal statement to the press: "I challenge anyone to produce one jot of evidence that the BCE has any designs on the commission."

In his statement, he added: "The press has carried state-ments implying that James Blyth resigned from the B.C. Power Commission, after having held office for six weeks, because he feared encroachment by the B.C. Electric. At no point was Mr. Blyth quoted as saying this, but the implications were definitely to this effect.

"I am able to state categorically that the B.C. Electric has no such policy, and has not even discussed the proposition of encroaching into territory of the B.C. Power Commission. Furthermore the record shows clearly that there has been no such policy in the past."

UNNECESSARY CONFUSION CREATED

Tyee President Charges Abel
With Detrimental Statements

Club president Arthur Cox of the Victoria Tyees today scored league president Robert Abel of the Western International Baseball League for creating unnecessary confusion in league ranks.

The charge arises out of recent persistent reports that WIL faces re-alignment because of insolvency of some clubs, but more particularly concerns accusations made Wednesday against Tyees in a directive issued by Abel in which it was also stated that the league would disband or be re-organized.

In a telegram to all league clubs, Abel charged the Tyees with:

"... Knowingly failing to report to the league any pay percentages collected by them. Victoria admits they withhold over $800 which belongs to the league."

The money concerned is a league assessment on home gates.

Regarding the intimation that other teams have indicated they will not make the prairie trip it is common talk that Salem and Lewiston have taken such a stand.

Regarding Abel's directive that "it (the WIL) cease to operate as of June 14, 1954,

"I am at a loss to understand why the statement and decision was made by president Abel at this time when a league meeting of all club delegates is to be held in Spokane on Tuesday, June 12."

Rumors that the four Canadian teams may be dropped are completely unfounded as far as the Tyees are concerned, Cox said.

Cox and general manager Reg Patterson will attend the WIL meeting in Spokane with an "open mind."

And although indications are strong that the league may be re-aligned because of the financial troubles facing some of the clubs, the Victoria club plans to refuse to pay the league dues until the expenses occasioned by the prairie trip are proportionately equalized by clubs which have not yet made the trip to Edmonton and Calgary.
